Good Evening

It's easier to know when you're wrong than when you're right.

India Throws Paratroops Into Battle Of Hyderabad

New Delhi, Sept. 15 (AP) — India threw parachute troops into the invasion of Hyderabad today and captured Homnabad, 84 miles from the capital. The drive was from the west.

The second largest city of the princely state, Aurangabad, and its cantonment surrendered in the northwest, giving India virtually all that corner of the state, the defense ministry said.

Military informants in Madras said they thought Indian troops might reach Hyderabad city and suburban Secunderabad by Thursday or Friday. This would virtually end the fighting, which stemmed from the refusal of the wealthy Moslem to join his state to the Indian union.

Planes Strafe Defenders

India asserted when its troops struck into the south central state at dawn Monday that disorder was rife and the will of the people, 80 per cent of whom are Hindus, was being thwarted.

(A Karachi dispatch said Hyderabad officials have not confirmed the loss of Aurangabad. Hyderabad advices reported stiff fighting on the border of Berar, which joins the state on the north. Hyderabad claimed 2,000 of its irregular troops repulsed an Indian attack near Hospet in the southwest.)

Indians striking toward the capital and Secunderabad from the east were said to have advanced three miles east of Suriapet to within 75 miles of their goal. Aircraft strafed the defenders. A military spokesman said no Hyderabad planes have been seen in battle, although the state has some.

Rail Center To Fall

The spokesman said the important railhead of Khammamet, 110 miles east of Hyderabad city, is expected "to fall at any time." Troops from Madras have been driving against it from the south from Bezwada.

A defense ministry spokesman announced the capture of Aurangabad and this was supported by field dispatches.

He said the city, which lies about 275 miles northwest of the princely state's capital, was surrendered by the chief collector, the city's principal administrative officer. Not a shot was fired, he added.

The occupation of Aurangabad, together with the capture yesterday of Daulatabad and Jalna, gives the Indian army control of virtually the entire northwest corner of Hyderabad, the spokesman said.

Draft Listings Go Over 2,000 Mark

The Selective Service board registration room in the court house was jammed this morning with men born in 1929 signing for the draft today. The same age group will also register Thursday. The men born in 1930 will register Friday and Saturday.

Up to the close of business Tuesday evening 2,072 had signed, including 1,168 veterans. Tuesday 151 registered with only 18 of that group being veterans.

On duty as registrars this morning were the following secured by the local Women's Civic Council, Mrs. Floyd Carroll, in charge; Mrs. William Pensyl, Miss Anna McSherry, Mrs. Elizabeth Hennig, Mrs. James Howe, Mrs. Jacob Small and Mrs. M. J. Flynn. Additional registrars will be on duty this afternoon.

MOTORIST FORFEITS $50

A York motorist who was arrested by Hanover police last Thursday night on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct following a traffic accident in which his car crashed into a parked automobile, forfeited a $50 bond Friday evening for failure to appear for a hearing in police court at Hanover. Police said Roy W. Brillhart, York, was nabbed following a brief chase after his car hit the parked auto of Sterling L. Helwig, Gettysburg R. 1, in the 100-block York street, Hanover.

SPORTSMEN TO MEET

The Gettysburg Sportsmen's association will plan its fall program this evening at a meeting to be held in the association's building along Wainwright avenue at 8 o'clock. All members were urged to be present. The association has 68 members and 15 applicants will be voted upon this evening.

MARINES MEET THURSDAY

The monthly meeting of the Marine corps League will be held Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock at The American Legion home. Officers will be elected and new business will be transacted. All Marines interested in the League are invited to attend the meeting.

PAUL B. KEBIL EXPIRES TODAY IN BETHESDA

Paul B. Kebil, 52, Seneca, Md., formerly of Fairfield and Gettysburg, a veteran of World War I, died this morning at the Navy Medical Center, Bethesda, Md. He had been in ill health for over two years and was admitted to the hospital in June.

Mr. Kebil was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Kebil, Fairfield. He enlisted in the army in July, 1918, and was discharged November 21, 1919, after seving overseas.

At one time he operated Kebil's Inn, west of Gettysburg, for a number of years and later sold that property and took over the Fairfield hotel from his father. Several years ago, due to illness, he sold the hotel and moved to Seneca where, after about a year of medical care he recovered sufficiently to begin work again and established a boat-building business near his home on the Potomac river.

At one time he was employed by the Ugite road material company here, and then operated the Atlantic Service station on Buford avenue for some time. After selling the station he secured Hershey park.

At Seneca, in addition to the boat building business, he had started construction of the Angler Sporting Store, which was just about completed when he was taken to the hospital in June.

Mr. Kebil was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, Fairfield, and the Albert J. Lentz Post, the American Legion, and the Fairfield fire company.

Surviving are his widow, the former Hannah Minnich; two sisters, Mrs. Lewis Brinton, Harrisburg, and Mrs. Guy Sanders, New Baltimore, Md. and one step-daughter, Mrs. Joseph Imber, Philadelphia.

Funeral services Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Fairfield, conducted by the Rev. Fr. Vincent Topper. Interment in Evergreen cemetery, Gettysburg. Friends may call at the Allison funeral home Thursday evening after 7 o'clock. The Holy Name society will meet at the funeral home Thursday evening at 8 o'clock for prayers.

Food Cost Spiral At New July High

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—Cost of food in the family "market basket" spiralled to a new high in July, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Based on the July prices, it would take $709 to supply a family of three with farm produce for a year. This was one per cent above the $703 June figure, and 11 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Of the $709, the department said, the farmer would get $377 and various middle-men between him and consumer, $332.

At mid-July the farmer's share of the "market basket" dollar averaged 53 cents, highest since the record-matching share of 55 cents in January. From July, 1947, to July, 1948, the farmer's receipts advanced by nearly 15 per cent. During the same period the marketing charges increased over seven per cent.

FILE ESTATE BOND

An administration bond in the estate of Guy A. Bishop, Sr., late of Cumberland township, has been filed with the county register and recorder by the administratix, the widow, Blanche M. Bishop, Gettysburg R. 3.

BARTON STAMPS HERE

Five thousand Clara Barton stamps went on sale Tuesday afternoon at the post office here, Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyler announced today.

Accident Victim's Funeral Is Held

Funeral services for Donald M. Shulley, 28, Orrtanna, who was fatally injured early Sunday morning when the car he was driving north of Westminster crashed into a telephone pole, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bender funeral home conducted by the Rev. Richard K. Titley. Interment in Flohr's cemetery.

Military services were conducted by the Albert J. Lentz post, American Legion.

The pallbearers were Clark Rebert, Kenneth Deardorff, Glenn Musselman, Jr., Alvah Stonesifer, Jr., Floyd King and Arthur Wetzel.

DELAY STREET ACTION UNTIL NEXT FEBRUARY

Biglerville's borough council meeting Tuesday night in the town fire hall found itself in unanimous agreement with the citizens of the borough who presented a petition asking the council to urge the state Department of Highways to remove the fence which juts out into South Main street.

In fact, council pointed out, it had asked the state Highway Department to remove the fence and extend the highway to its full width at the spot when the council and highway were first talking about constructing the new borough street.

But, council added, there are several factors that prevent the proposed improvement from being made before next year.

$25,000 Cost Involved

The first problem is financial. In order to remove the fence and widen the street to its full width the stream which flows along the side of the road, and for which the fence was put up as a protection against anyone falling into the stream, will have to be removed.

To remove the watercourse the council will have to put in about 700 feet of additional drain to take care of one drain that now enters the stream. In addition it will have to put in a bridge or part of a bridge, and drains to take care of the stream where it crosses the street. Then when the water has been diverted to some other location the eight-foot-deep "hole" in which the stream is located will have to be filled in. Council estimated the cost at about $25,000.

That was the reason why the run was not removed immediately upon making plans to put down a new street, Council President John Deardorff, Sr., pointed out. Originally the plans called for such action, but the state found out it did not have money enough for the job and the council did not have the cash on hand to take care of the improvement. As a matter of fact, council pointed out, it will have to borrow money to pay the $12,000 it must contribute to the state toward the cost of constructing the new street as it is planned at present.

Time Element Cited

Even though funds were at hand to go ahead with the work of removing the stream, it still could not be done immediately, council added.

To do the job, Deardorff and other members of council pointed out, an engineer would have to be employed and then advertisements would have to be run for three weeks, under the law, to secure a contractor to do the job.

"Thus it would take at least five weeks before a pick could be taken to the ground," one councilman said, "and by that time we would be running into cold weather and frozen ground."

One other problem would remain if council proposed to go ahead immediately with plans to remove the stream—the construction of the road would be held up for additional

Historic Old Stone Church To Mark Two Hundredth Anniversary On Oct. 17

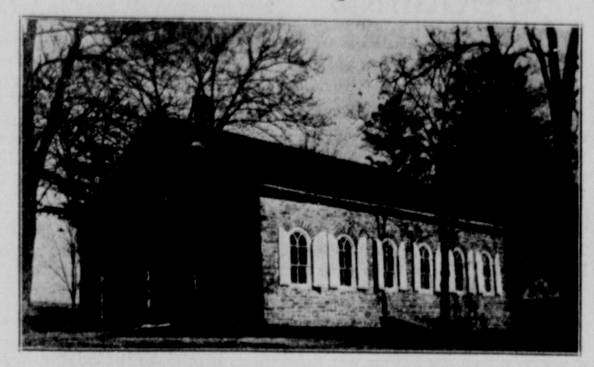
The Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church, along the Fairfield road in Highland township, will celebrate next month the 200th anniversary of its organization.

General plans for the celebration to be held Sunday, October 17, at morning and afternoon programs, were announced today by the pastor, the Rev. Harry S. Ecker.

Among the speakers for the occasion will be Dr. Edward H. Roberts, dean of Princeton Theological seminary at Princeton, N. J.; Navy Chaplain John Warner Moore, a grandson of the Rev. John R. Warner who served the church as pastor during the Civil war period, and Judge W. C. Sheely, an elder of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church.

The church has had only 10 pastors and one stated supply in 200 years. One of the pastors, Dr. William Paxton, was pastor for 49 years. Another, the Rev. William S. VanCleve, served for 32 years, and a third, the Rev. D. Walker Woods, was pastor for 25 years. The Rev. Mr. Ecker began his pastorate on October 1, 1939.

Lower Marsh Creek church traces its beginnings to a split in the Presbyterian Church in America into New Side and Old Side that continued from 1741 to 1758. A group of the New Side sympathizers withdrew from the Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian church, which had been organized in 1740 and was located at what is now known as Black's graveyard, between the Lincoln highway and the Mummasburg road about three miles west of here. That congregation later became the Gettysburg Presbyterian church.



The separating New Siders organized the Presbyterian Church of Lower Marsh Creek with the Rev. Andrew Bay as pastor. They located along the west side of Marsh Creek, building a log church on the site of the present Lower Marsh Creek cemetery, north of the Fairfield road. In this log church, the Presbytery of Carlisle was organized October 17, 1786.

Since 1790, the congregation has worshipped in the historic Old Stone church where the Pennsylvania Historic Commission recently placed a suitable marker. The ladies of the church, aided by contributions from Harper Beall and James Marshall, two North Carolina descendants of deceased members of the church, procured and placed a bronze tablet on the church. The tablet will be dedicated during the bi-centennial celebration.

Under the direction of the board of trustees of the church, improvements have been made to the church property in preparation for the celebration in October.

One distinguished former Adams countian and a grandson of Dr. William Paxton has been a teacher of the last four pastors of the church as a member of the faculty of Princeton Theological seminary. He was the Rev. Dr. William Miller Paxton who graduated from Gettysburg college in 1843 and studied law before deciding after his grandfather's death in 1945 to study for the ministry.

He attended Princeton seminary and after serving as pastor in Greencastle, the First Church of Pittsburgh and the First Church of New York city, became professor of homiletics and pastoral theology at the Princeton seminary where he taught four men who later served Lower Marsh Creek church as pastor.

NATIONAL GUARD WINS 'SUPERIOR' RATING AT CAMP

Adams county's Troop A of the National Guard won a superior rating for its work at Indiantown Gap during the recent summer maneuvers Major Clair J. Stouffer, Jr., commanding officer of the 104th Squadron, said Tuesday evening at the "open house" held by the local Guardsmen at the armory here.

The rating was given by the 10th Corps inspecting officer. The local unit is assigned to the 10th Corps Artillery.

With more than 100 residents of the town visiting the armory for the "National Guard Day" program, the Guardsmen demonstrated the use of their equipment and then stood in formation as Major Stauffer presented medals won by the members at Indiantown Gap for their marksmanship skill.

Display Equipment

With Major Stouffer were Capt. Robert L. Sheaffer and Warrant Officer Junior Grade Ralph J. Kline. Three members of the local unit received promotions to staff sergeant during the formation. They were former sergeants William Forysthe, Robert Epley and John R. Wolf.

For the open house, the Guardsmen had an M-8 armored car, complete with equipment, on display and members of the unit mingled with the visitors to explain various features of the mechanisms. A field kitchen was on display and to prove that the kitchen works the mess sergeant, T-4 Thomas, made coffee on a field stove. The coffee and cake were served to the visitors and Guardsmen at the end of the program.

Small arms and fire control equipment were also on display.

Property Transfers

Roy F. and Mary Millhimes, Gettysburg, sold to Dauglas W. and Sara J. Smith, same place, for $5,500, a property on East Middle street.

Anna Reaver, McSherrystown, sold to Sterling E. and Marie C. Warehime, Hanover, for $5,200, a property on North street, McSherrystown.

William J. and Rebecca C. Eckard, Hanover, sold to Herbert L. and Esther M. Nichols, Westminster R. 3, for $1,400, a property in Germany township.

Birth Announcements

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Leatherman, Gettysburg R. 3, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Leese, Jr., Hanover R. 3, announced the birth of a daughter Tuesday at the Hanover hospital.

Born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glatfelter, East Berlin, at the Hanover hospital, a daughter.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Noel, Gettysburg R. 5, at the Hanover hospital Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood P. Miller, 34 Newark street, Littlestown, are the parents of a son, born Monday at the Hanover hospital.

Man Is Jailed For Hearing Tonight

Oliver Kaufman, Fayetteville R. D was in jail here today awaiting a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore on surety of the peace and assault and battery charges. He was remanded to jail in dafault of $500 bail on each charge.

The charges grew out of an alleged fight between Kaufman and John W. Naugle, Fayetteville R. D. Sunday night. Naugle filed the charges. Kaufman was arrested by Constable L. D. Kaufman of Fayetteville.

Officers Elected By Local Church School

At the election of officers held at Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church school on Sunday morning, George T. Raffensperger presided. The following were unanimously elected for the year beginning October 1: Superintendent, Clyde A. Spangler; assistants, Dr. Granville Schultz and Bruce Westerdahl; treasurer, Ray J. Kitzmiller; secretary, Mrs. William Swisher; librarian, Mrs. Kenneth Hull. Mr. Spangler will announce his appointments of departmental superintendents and assistants on Sunday morning and the entire staff will be formally installed on September 26.

Next Sunday morning Mrs. Charles Kuhns, temperance superintendent, will conduct her quarterly program in the main room.

Christening Held For Diane Kargas

A christening for Diane Michele Kargas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kargas, 60 East Middle street, was held Sunday at the Prince of Peace Episcopal church and was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Cassis, a Greek Orthodox priest from Harrisburg.

Mrs. Basil Politis, Washington, D. C., a sister of Mrs. Kargas, was the godmother.

In the evening a reception for the 125 guests was held at the Shetter House. Guests were present from Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Reading, Harrisburg, Shippensburg, Hanover and Baltimore.

U.S. Visa Official Faces Charge Of Neglect Of Duty

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—Robert O. Alexander, who disagreed with Secretary of State Marshall over the danger of admitting Communists to this country through the United Nations, has been charged with misconduct and neglect of duty.

The State Department has presented the charges in a letter to Alexander, who is assistant chief of the visa division.

Officials said the action is the first of a series of steps which could result in disciplinary action, possibly including dismissal.

Alexander and two other visa division officials testified before Senate judiciary committee investigators two months ago that there was a threat to the national security in the admission into the U. S. of aliens from Communist-controlled countries as employes of the United Nations.

Subsequently Secretary of State Marshall told a news conference he knew of no case in which investigation had showed that there was any such threat.

Marshall named a committee of three Washington citizens, however, to investigate the situation. Their report presumably lays the basis for some of the charges which the department has formally brought.

This report said Alexander and his associates "had never made a persistent effort" to bring to the attention of top department officials the condition about which they testified they were disturbed.

The committee also said that their testimony was "irresponsible in its lack of factual support."

The filing of charges probably will intensify the controversy which has been going on between Chairman Revercomb (R.-W. Va.) of the judiciary subcommittee and Marshall. The Secretary has thus far denied Revercomb's investigators access to the Department's visa files concerning aliens attached to the United Nations.

Alexander declined to comment to a reporter on the charges. He said any statement would have to come from his attorney.

Indications were that Alexander probably would base his defense on the contention that civil service employes are entitled to protection against retaliatory action by their departmental superiors after they testify before Congressional committees.

Dunning Idle, IV, Home From Europe

Dunning Idle IV, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dunning Idle, Baltimore street, returned Sunday evening from Europe where he spent the summer. For a greater part of the time he was at Les Andyles, France, where he worked under the auspices of the Unitarian Service Committee but he also visited in Paris, Normandy, Switzerland, Brussels and Rotterdam.

He will go to Princeton, N. J., on Saturday to resume his studies in the school of public and international affairs at Princeton university.

SOROPTIMISTS PLAN MEETINGS IN COMING YEAR

Plans for dinner meetings for the next four months were approved Tuesday evening at a business meeting of the local Soroptimist club. The session was held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hennig, York street.

Mrs. Guyon E. Buehler, program chairman, submitted the plans for the dinner meetings. At the dinner session this month, to be held on Tuesday, September 28, the four club members who attended the tenth biennial conference of the International Federation of Soroptimist clubs in Canada recently will report on the conference. They are Mrs. Buehler, Mrs. Hennig, Miss Dorothy Foth and Miss Esther Hartman.

The four girls who have received the Helen L. Cope award will be guests at the dinner. They are Miss Gloria Ecker, Gettysburg; Miss Betty Leeming, Littlestown R. D.; Miss Myrna Bream, Hunterstown and Miss Marguerite Mickley, Cashtown. President Griest appointed Mrs. Clyde Daley chairman of the dinner committe with Mrs. H. Wilbert Baker, Gettysburg, and Mrs. B. G. Walters, Biglerville, assisting.

10th Anniversary Near

For the October meeting, the Gettysburg club, on invitation from the Carlisle club, voted to join with that club on Tuesday, October 19, at Allenberry, near Boiling Springs, for an observance of the 27th Founder's Week. This dinner meeting will take the place of the Gettysburg club's monthly dinner meeting on the fourth Tuesday of the month.

In November, the Gettysburg club will observe its tenth birthday in a special celebration to which other clubs will be invited. Miss Martha

Biglerville Council Plans Public Meet

Biglerville's borough council is considering a special "Pennsylvania Week" public session to provide Biglerville residents with more information concerning how their town government operates.

Councilmen and Burgess J. Hoke Slaybaugh expressed themselves as pleased with a suggestion made by the state that all borough councils hold such meetings in connection with Pennsylvania Week.

The session, if it can be arranged, will be held either in council chambers or in the Biglerville auditorium. The council hopes to obtain a motion picture on borough government put out by the state and also to secure a speaker from the state to talk about what a council can and cannot do and what its duties are.

While the program probably cannot be arranged in time for the Pennsylvania Week celebration this year, the council hopes to make such a program an annual event starting at some future date, with the hope of getting the population of the town more interested in the activities of council and in the problems of the town.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Admissions to the Warner hospital include Mrs. Charles Dutrow, Taneytown; Mrs. Elbertie Jacobs, Gettysburg R. 3; Mrs. John Kump, Littlestown R. 1; Mrs. Howard Leatherman, Gettysburg R. 3; Mrs. Herbert Raymond, 66 East Broadway; Jacob Livingston, Gettysburg R. 2, and Mrs. Vernon Heflin, Gettysburg R. 5. Those discharged were Mrs. Paul Snyder and infant son, Barry Dean, 40 South street; Mrs. Charles Slonaker and infant son, Bruce Hershey, Arendtsville, and Mrs. Horace Neal, 214 Chambersburg street.

JOINS COLLEGE STAFF

Miss Barbara Henderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Henderson, Fairfield, left today to join the faculty of Colby Junior college, New London, New Hampshire, as an instructor in physical education. Miss Henderson graduated in June from Boston University College of Physical Education for Women, Sargent college.

FILE DIVORCE ACTION

A complaint in action of divorce was filed at the prothonotary's office this morning by J. Francis Yake for Dorothy N. Darr, Biglerville R. 2, against Boyd C. Darr, York Springs.

SEMI-INVALID, GRANDCHILDREN FLEE BURNING HOME TUESDAY

Three McSherrystown residents narrowly escaped injury Tuesday night when their home caught fire.

Miss Thyra Louise Pentz, 18, had her hair singed as she and a sister ran through a flaming room to escape the burning house, while their grandmother, Mrs. George Felix, aged about 65, and a semi-invalid, collapsed as she reached the porch of the house as she fled the flames.

The three were alone in the two-and-a-half-story frame house when it burst into flames about 10:15 o'clock Tuesday night. Most of the first floor of the structure, owned by George Felix, was destroyed, while several rooms on the second floor suffered only smoke damage. Another room on the first floor, in which Mrs. Felix slept, was damaged by fire and smoke.

Mr. Felix and others were visiting at a cottage owned by his son at the time of the fire.

Neighbor Gave Alarm

Members of the family and others said that the fire broke out all through the downstairs section without warning. Mrs. Felix had been to the enclosed porch at the rear of the house, where the fire apparently started, about 9:30 o'clock, shortly before retiring, and saw nothing amiss. The women had been in bed about a half hour when Charles Clark, a next door neighbor, looking out his kitchen window, saw the Felix house in flames.

He ran to the window of the room in which Mrs. Felix slept and awakened her. She ran to the porch of the house, where Mr. and Mrs. Clark had arrived by that time, and collapsed, with the Clarks able to catch her as she fell. They carried her to their home.

Miss Thyra Pentz and Mary Jane Pentz, 11, sleeping on the second floor, were awakened by the shouts and went down a back stairway into the kitchen. The kitchen and a middle room were aflame at the time but the two dashed through the fire to safety.

Over $5,000 Damage

Mrs. Felix's son-in-law, Chief of Police Maynard Masemer had passed the Felix house on his rounds about 10 minutes before the fire alarm was given. He noticed no fire at that time.

Mrs. Felix and her granddaughters were removed to the home of Chief and Mrs. Masemer. Mrs. Felix received treatment by Dr. Anthony Tananis and was reported recovered today.

Hanover and McSherrystown firemen were called and today said they believed a short circuit was the cause of the blaze. No final estimate was made of damage pending the conclusion of an investigation by insurance adjusters but it was felt that the amount would exceed $5,000. Stoves, a refrigerator and other equipment in the kitchen were destroyed in addition to the damage to the house and other furniture.

TRACTOR DRIVER PAYS TWO FINES

Monroe Shearer, Gettysburg R. 3, who was charged by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station with operating a tractor on the highway without registration plates, and without having an operator's license, paid fines of $10 on each of the charges, plus the costs, to Justice of the Peace Warren T. Dunn, Biglerville.

Donald P. Willet, McSherrystown, paid $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace L. G. Kuhn, Midway, on a reckless driving charge, filing of which followed an accident in which Willet was involved, police said, on September 5.

Paul Price, East Berlin, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace David Hykes, New Oxford R. 1, for failing to yield the right of way. The charge was filed as the result of an accident August 28.

Leroy H. Mayer, Jr., York, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace W. D. Brown, Hunterstown, for making an improper pass.

A 10-day notice was sent today by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder to Connie J. Wagner, Gettysburg R. 3, for making a left turn in front of oncoming traffic. Wagner's car and another were involved in an accident at the top of Kockier's hill Monday afternoon.

GAS STOVE BLAZE

Firemen were called at 5:55 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to the apartment of Ernest Simpson, second floor, 11 Baltimore street, where a defective burner on a gas stove shot a flame three feet into the room and endangered the woodwork, firemen said. A gas company employe turned off the gas in the cellar.

BULLETINS

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Air Force is sending about 40 more C-54 cargo planes to Germany to reinforce the 105 C-54s flying the airlift to Soviet-blockaded Berlin.

The planes, now going over, will use expanded airport facilities which have been constructed to handle the task of supplying Berlin.

The Air Force said it will continue to meet such requirements as may be laid down by Gen. Lucius Clay, U. S. military governor, during the coming months.

Berlin, Sept. 15 (AP)—Britain charged today Russian troops provoked German anti-Communists into the rioting last Thursday which resulted in street fighting at the Brandenburg Gate.

The statement by an official British military government spokesman rejected an accusation by the Russian commandant, Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, that inactivity of British military police encouraged "Fascist provocateurs" to attack Russian soldiers and the Soviet War Memorial.

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP) — The Justice Department today filed a civil anti-trust suit against the "big four" meat packers—Swift and company, Armour and company, the Cudahy Packing company and Wilson and company, incorporated.

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP) — The Air Force acknowledged today that half a dozen hitherto secret combat plane types are being built for speeds ranging up to supersonic. Most are jet and rocket powered.

Acknowledgement of the new types came after a summary of them was printed in American aviation daily, an industry news letter published here.

London, Sept. 15 (AP) — Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons today the Communists are following a plan aimed at seizing Southeast Asia. The Communists' aim is to "try to drive every western association out of that territory, in trade and everything else," Bevin declared.

U.S. BOMBERS HAVE LICKED ARCTIC FLYING

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP) — The United States bomber force has licked the problem of operating in the stormy but strategically vital arctic, its chief disclosed today.

Gen. George C. Kenney, boss of the Strategic Air Command, said crews have now learned how to fly B-29s "with high efficiency" in the bitter cold up near the top of the world.

"Last winter we took all the mystery out of flying B-29s in the arctic," he said in an interview.

The general's comment pointed up the major importance strategists attach to the polar regions, the short air road between three continents.

Need More Men

"The main thing you need for arctic operations," Kenney said, "is just about twice as many people because a man's efficiency there is just about half of normal."

This was demonstrated, he said, by the exhaustive studies, tests and training during which Superfortress crews in Alaska actually flew more hours than groups in the United States.

Failure of equipment in the arctic training, however, was pared down until it was no greater than it was for bombers operating over the southwestern United States.

To demonstrate that it could be done, maintenance men changed engines on B-29s out-of-doors with the temperature 40 degrees below zero.

Kenney had no comment on the status of the polar bastion's other air defense — fighter protection, warning networks, anti-aircraft and garrisons—except to say that "the situation has improved slightly."

ARMY SIGNING DOCK WORKERS

San Francisco, Sept. 15 (AP)—Despite only limited success so far, the army sought today to sign up dock workers at Pacific coast ports to move military cargo piled up during the 14-day maritime strike.

CIO Longshore Leader Harry Bridges, labeling all those who signed up with the army as strikebreakers, declared he would request unions in all foreign ports to refuse to handle "scab" ships.

This cast an international implication into the crippling tie-up and made uncertain the unloading of army food and supplies destined for Pacific areas.

Army action to hire men directly was taken yesterday after shipping employers refused to load or sail as long as they had to deal with what they called "Communist party line leadership." Bridges has declined to sign a non-Communist affidavit under the Taft-Hartley act.

Men seeking work—mostly non-unionists—were told they would be considered strikebreakers and would be fired by the army as soon as the strike ends. But there was no violence. If they insisted on signing up, they were allowed to pass.

TELLS OF BOY'S FATAL BEATING

Erie, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—A young father being tried on a murder charge in the death of his six-year-old-son, told a criminal court jury that he beat the boy with a belt for refusing to tell where he had hidden a toy hammer.

"I told Jackie a father sometimes has to do things to his children he does not like," Ralph J. Hoge, 26, of Harbor Creek, Pa., testified yesterday.

Dr. James E. Wallace, pathologist at Hamot hospital, previously testified the boy died last May 30 as a result of repeated blows, "probably 100." There were at least 93 abrasions on the child's body, he said.

District Attorney Damian McLaughlin has indicated he would seek a second degree murder verdict with a maximum penalty of 10 to 20 years in prison.

Hoge testified that after the beating he put his son to bed and massaged his wounds with vaseline.

"Jackie told me 'I still love you, daddy,'" Hoge said. "Those were the last words my son said to me."

Ice Cream Cones Also Check Fires

Ontario, Calif., Sept. 15 (AP)—Ice cream cones, as every youngster knows, are delicious, nutritious, healthful. But that's not all. You can use 'em to put out fires.

Policeman Alfred Bolsta did. The officer was munching on his double-decker fudge wave special when a juvenile driver in a "hot rod" zipped down the street, leaving a backwash of half-exploded gasoline fumes.

The motorcycle officer noticed, however, that the car's rear end was blazing. He took after the youth, chased him for five blocks, until the flaming car pulled into a service station.

"Get out of that car," yelled the policeman, fearful that an explosion might blast the station. As the youth got out, Bolsta jammed his ice cream cone into the tank opening. It stopped the flames.

FIRES IN MAINE

Boston, Sept. 15 (AP)—More than a score of fires sweeping through Maine woods created what authorities described as a "critical" situation today. Meanwhile, Massachusetts Fire Warden Joseph L. Peabody said the state was "sitting on a firecracker" as a result of parching heat that had made forests tinder dry.

CONTINUE SEARCH

Winnipeg, Sept. 15 (AP)—A search continued today for a United States twin-engined aircraft missing somewhere in northern Manitoba's bleak bushland since Sunday. Reconnaissance planes are seeking flares which would indicate the C-45 Beechcraft's whereabouts.

Engagement

Mason—Corbett

Mrs. William A. Corbett, 134 Carlisle street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary Jane, to Paul Bradfard Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Baron Mason, of Westboro, Mass. The wedding will take place Saturday, October 2, at Westboro.

Weddings

Canfield—Little

The wedding of Miss Charlotte Louise Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Little, of 7230 Lawndale street, Philadelphia, and formerly of Littlestown, and Kenneth Strauss Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand R. Canfield of Wellesley Hills, Mass., took place at noon on Saturday, September 11, in Trinity Lutheran church, Germantown, Philadelphia. The Rev. Edward T. Horn, III, pastor, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin dress and headdress of coronet of pearls with a silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and ivy. Miss Patricia Canfield, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, wore American beauty tissue faille. The bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth T. Riegel, Larchmont, N. Y., Miss Ann Sheehan, Belmont, Mass., Miss Ann Bletzezr, Brookline, Mass., and Miss Ann Obermiller, Ambler, Pa., wore apple green tissue faille. All the attendants carried cascade bouquets of shell pink pompons and ivy.

Harold Parker, Perry, N. Y., served as best man and the ushers were: Philip Herbert, East Orange, N. J., James Hyatt, Mt. Lebanon, Pa., Richard A. Little, Jr., Littlestown, a cousin of the bride, and Irvin Kennedy, Llanerch, Pa. A reception at the Northeast Shrine club followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Canfield attended Marion college, Marion, Va., and Simmons college, Boston, Mass. Mr. Canfield is completing his fifth year of chemical engineering at Cornell university. After a motor trip and cruise through Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Canfield will be at home in Ithaca, N. Y.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, Brown apartments, Center Square, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Little, South Queen street, all of Littlestown.

Zearfoss—Nicholson

Miss Clara Eugenia Nicholson, of Philadelphia, daughter of George Nicholson, of South street, McSherrystown, became the bride of Elmer William Zearfoss, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Zearfoss, Philadelphia, at a nuptial mass on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the Church of the Transfiguration, in Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Rufus, Camden, N. J., and a former chaplain at the Naval hospital, Philadelphia.

The bridesmaid was Miss Genevieve Martitis, Philadelphia. Joseph Wagman, Aberdeen, Md., brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. Following the ceremony, a breakfast was served in the Blue Room of the Garden Court Plaza to a large number of friends and relatives, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to the Pocono mountains. They will reside at 428 West Bringhurst street, Germantown. The bride served as a Wave during World War II and is employed as a clerk in the clerical department of Station WPEN. The bridegroom is employed by the Philco corporation.

ONE-TAX BILL IS ADVOCATED

Pittsburgh, Sept. 15 (AP) — A one-tax bill for all local government taxes was advocated today by Norman A. Peil of Easton, president of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners.

In a speech at the opening session of the three-day annual convention, Peil, who is a commissioner of Northampton county, declared: "The object of one tax bill for all local government taxes has in it the potentiality of great financial savings and increased efficiency in tax administration."

Peil said one of the first things that must pave the way toward such an accomplishment is to have a common fiscal year in all counties of the Commonwealth, adding: "Therefore, there will be presented to you a resolution which will favor the adoption of the fiscal year period beginning July 1 and ending June 30 for all local government."

The Easton man pleaded for increased efficiency in local government administration, not only in Pennsylvania but in all 48 states.

Urging that there be "no further centralization of authority," Peil said: "The trend of centralization has always founds its roots in the inefficient way that local problems were handled. When local government officials demonstrate that they are not only capable, but are willing to assume responsibilities, regardless of their personal welfare, we will have destroyed the basis for any further centralization and will have opened the channel for the return of some of the authority that has been taken from us."

Hurricane Not To Hit Mainland

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Atlantic hurricane was centered about 300 miles south-southwest of Cape Race, Newfoundland today. The Weather bureau said the hurricane apparently will not strike the North American continent.

The bureau's early morning advisory said the hurricane was moving northeastward at about 35 miles per hour and was expected to continue that path, with its speed increasing during the next 24 hours.

Hurricane winds extend over a radius of about 75 miles, with winds estimated about 120 miles per hour near the center of the disturbance, and gales and squalls extend outward as far as 350 miles from the center, the bureau said.

"This is a severe storm and all shipping in its path should exercise extreme caution." Coast Guard area headquarters here said it had not received any report of a ship in distress in the hurricane area.

AN AUDITING COMMITTEE

It was incorrectly reported Tuesday that Miss Mildred Moser, Mrs. Jessie Easterday and Mrs. Helen Corbett comprised the finance committee of the YWCA, which conducted the successful financial campaign for $3,000, recently completed. This committee was appointed to audit the books for the campaign and at Monday's meeting of the YWCA board they presented their official report, attesting to the correctness of these books. Mrs. Wayne Keet, House chairman, and her committee, were commended by the board for the program of upkeep and repairs to the building which they have been putting into effect. All the items planned for the year have been completed in the first six months, with the exception of some papering and painting for which enough funds were not available.

ASK JAIL

Philadelphia, Sept. 15 (AP)—Jail sentences will be demanded for 15 persons indicted by the September grand jury yesterday on gambling charges, Special Deputy Attorney General Laurence H. Eldredge declared yesterday. The 15 persons were among 22 alleged gamblers rearrested in connection with the investigation of former Chief Magistrate John J. O'Malley.

MANY STATES HOLD ELECTIONS

(By The Associated Press)

Voters in seven states nad their candidates all picked today for political offices ranging from Governor and Senator down to minor town positions.

These were the major results in yesterday's primaries:

Senator Joseph Ball won Republican renomination in Minnesota, while Mayor Hubert Humphreys of Minneapolis snagged the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Another incumbent, Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, rolled up a heavy victory margin in his state's Democratic primary. His November opponent probably will be Republican Will F. Nicholson, political newcomer who held a growing lead over former Gov. John C. Vivian.

Republican Senators Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Styles Bridges of New Hampshire were unopposed Saltonstall will get his November opposition from John I. Fitzgerald, while Alfred E. Fortin will square off against Bridges.

Both Michigan senatorial candidates — GOP Senator Homer F. Ferguson and former Democratic Rep. Frank Hook, also lacked opposition within their own parties.

Another senatorial candidate was named officially in Texas, but not in an election. The Democratic convention meeting there yesterday acclaimed Rep. Lyndon Johnson victor in the hard-fought primary runoff against former Gov. Coke Stevenson — in which, out of nearly 1,000,000 votes cast, Johnson had a majority of less than 100.

The convention also registered an important victory for backers of President Truman when it ejected from the meeting and from the party's leadership all members opposing Mr. Truman's candidacy for the presidency.

COPS, STRIKERS CLASH IN PARIS

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP) — Police and strikers clashed today in a street fight near the center of Paris. Several on both sides were injured.

A crowd estimated by police at 2,500 marched on headquarters of the National Aviation Industry in the Boulevard Hausman. Police said the demonstrators rushed their lines when company executives refused to see representatives of strikers.

Employes of the aviation plant struck this morning, protesting the recent layoff of workers from the government payrolls. The French aviation industry is nationalized.

Some 31,000 workers of the Renault Motors plant also voted to go out this afternoon.

Strikers tore up the iron grillwork around trunks of trees lining the sidewalks, broke the bars up and used the pieces as missiles to hurl at police. The strikers littered the street with paving stones and pieces of iron. About 30 strikers were seriously injured. Some 15 police were hospitalized, police reported.

EX-CHAPLAIN DIES

Chester, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP) — The Rev. George Francis Conner, former chaplain of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, died yesterday in Crozer hospital after collapsing in his study. He was 65. Mr. Conner since last May had served as pastor of Trinity Methodist church, Chester. Previously he had been associated with churches in Philadelphia, Norwood, Pottstown, West Grove and Safe Harbor, all in Pennsylvania.

400 MINERS STRIKE

Shenandoah, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—The Shen-Penn Co., largest coal stripping operation in the anthracite field, was tied up yesterday by a strike of 400 miners in a job dispute. The miners, a spokesman said, walked off their jobs after officials of the Philadelphia-Reading Coal Co. refused to advance a helper to the job of driller. A company spokesman said the man did not qualify for the job.

FATHER POLIO VICTIM

Camden, N. J., Sept. 15 (AP)—John Sturgis, Jr., Pitman, 32-year-old father of two children, died of infantile paralysis in Camden Municipal hospital today, the tenth 1948 polio victim in south New Jersey. Meantime, the total number of cases in the area reached 121 with the admission of four new patients to the hospital.

COAL PRICE UP

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—The Glen Alden Coal Co. announced today it is increasing the price on various sizes of anthracite from 5 to 10 cents a ton. The 10-cent hike will be on buckwheat, rice and barley coal. All other sizes will be raised 5 cents a ton. The prices are effective today.

WED 25 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Keeney today quietly observed their 25th wedding anniversary at their home on East Broadway. The couple was married at East Berlin, 25 years ago, by Mrs. Keeney's father, the Rev. W. G. Group. Mrs. Keeney is the former Miss Ruth Group.

May Munch Wood, Seaweed In Future

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—People 100 years from now may be munching food made out of wood and seaweed—or even food produced without growing any plants at all.

That's what Dr. Farrington Daniels, University of Wisconsin chemist, told a meeting of scientists today.

The energy of the sun, he related to the American association for the advancement of science, can be used to produce a wide variety of foods and fuels from unsuspected sources.

Dr. Daniels found that "comforting," in the light of current "unequal distribution among the nations of the world due to war and political short sightedness."

These are some of the things he foresees: Fuel alchol from wood and corn stalks, sugar from seaweed, motor fuel from a combination of carbon monoxide and hydrogen obtained from waste products.

NAMES MEDIATOR

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer has named a special mediator in the metropolitan truck strike, and told him to clear up the "chaotic" conditions in the industry's labor relations. The mediator, Hugh E. Sheridan, a truck company owner and impartial arbitrator in the industry for eight years, was called into the dispute yesterday as strike developments took a turn for the worse.

HUNTERS BEING HUNTED IN GA.

Atlanta, Sept. 15 (AP)—Some Georgia hunters were hunting dove today while agents of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service were hunting the hunters.

The dove, long a symbol of peace, has started a war between the Federal agency and the Georgia Game and Fish commission because the authorities have fixed different open seasons for hunting the birds.

The state has fixed two open seasons, the first from September 15 to September 30 and the second from December 1 to January 31. The Federals, however, contend that these dates conflict with the Federal open season for doves in Georgia, set by the U. S. agency from December 18 to January 31 for the state's northern section.

And the Feds have brought in 30 agents and two airplanes to enforce the Federal season.

Director Charles Elliott of the Georgia Fish and Game commission says his organization will not cooperate with the Federal authorities in enforcing the Federal law.

The Federals have won the first round. At Athens yesterday the United States commissioner placed five men, one a second offender, in bond on charges of shooting doves out of season.

BOSTON BRAVES HIKE LEAD TO 5 FULL GAMES

BY RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It looks as if the Boston Braves are in.

With a five game lead and only 16 games left to play, the Braves appear unstoppable in the National League today. At the moment it seems that only a major nosedive would deprive the Braves of their first pennant since the "miracle team" of 1914.

As for hitting a serious slump, Manager Billy Southworth isn't worried. He has the best remedy possible in his double "S" stoppers—Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn.

Sain, a big tobacco chewing right-hander with one of the best curve balls in the business, became the first pitcher in the loop to win 20 games when he pitched the Braves to a 10-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday.

The triumph enabled the Braves to pull five games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates who suffered a severe jolt by dropping a doubleheader to the third place Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-5 and 7-3.

20 Wins Again

Sain, who now has won at least 20 games for the third consecutive season, coasted home, thanks to an eight-run second inning rally against Hank Borowy and Ralph Hamner.

The Boston ace, one of the best hitting pitchers in the game, ignited the Braves' big rally with a two-run triple. After the Braves piled up a 10-0 lead, Sain let up and the Cubs scored three runs over the final four innings.

The Dodgers blasted 27 hits in sinking the Pirates at Ebbets field. Marv Rackley with six blows and Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson with five apiece paced the Dodger bombardment. Reese drove home five runs in the first game.

Brilliant relief pitching by Hank Behrman played a prominent part in the Dodgers' opening triumph. Behrman rescued young Carl Erskine in the fourth inning and held the Pirates to three hits the rest of the way. Harry Taylor, recently recalled from St. Paul, went the distance in the finale to post his first success since April 22. Firtz Ostermueller and Elmer Riddle were the losing pitchers. The victories moved the Dodgers to within one percentage point of the Pirates.

Blanked Phillies

The St. Louis Cardinals, behind the three-hit pitching of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, blanked the Phillies, 8-0 in a night game at Philadelphia. The triumph enabled the Cards to break their fourth place tie with the idle New York Giants.

Brecheen fanned eight in posting his 17th victory and seventh via the shutout route. The Cards snapped a tight hurling duel between Brecheen and lefty Ken Heintzelman with a three run rally in the sixth inning.

The Boston Red Sox retained their two game lead over the New York Yankees in the American League's pennant chase. The Sox downed the White Sox, 4-1, in a night game at Chicago while the Yanks brushed off the third place Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

Ellis Kinder checked the White Sox on five blows and wasn't scored on until the ninth. Ted Williams led the Red Sox attack, driving home three runs with a pair of doubles.

Yanks Scalp Tribe

The Yanks came from behind to nip the Indians, scoring four runs in the seventh inning to overcome a 4-2 deficit. A two-run pinch-hit homer by Charley Keller highlighted the uprising. Bob Lemon, Cleveland's 20 game winner, was the loser and Ed Lopat got the decision. Joe Gordon clouted his 27th homer off Lopat in the sixth with one on to spark a three run Cleveland rally.

Connie Mack's fourth place Philadelphia Athletics drubbed the Browns, 12-2, in a night game at St. Louis.

The Detroit Tigers took a doubleheader from the hapless Washington Senators, 2-1 in 11 innings, and 12-1. Paul Campbell's bases loaded single enabled Hal Newhouser to pick up his 17th victory in the first game.

Girl Pitcher Seeks Fortieth No-Hitter

Portland, Ore., Sept. 15 (AP)—Portland's Betty Evans, who narrowly missed pitching the 40th no-hit, no-run game of her career last night, faces her toughest test yet in the women's world softball tournament tonight.

She will meet Marie Wadlow, who has 39 no-hitters of her own, in a championship bracket semi-final game.

Miss Evans was just one out away from another hitless game last night. Her team, the Portland Lind-Pomeroys, had an 11 to 0 lead over the Pottstown, Pa., Cardinalettes, but then shortstop Lois Adams cracked out a solid double and scored a minute later when Betty Smith hit a single for Pottstown's lone run.

In the once-beaten bracket, Dayton, O., will play Pottstown and Boise will meet Salt Lake City tonight.

Under new All-America pro football conference rules teams must get the ball in play 25 seconds after the ball is dead, instead of 30.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Except for an occasional anticipatory shudder over coming games against the Boston Braves, Billy Meyer, Pittsburgh's grey-haired, stoop-shouldered pilot, can look at his club without fear and with considerable satisfaction. . . . "We have a good unit," is the way Billy describes his pennant-contending Pirates. "We have no stars—not even Kiner. They all work for the team. That way we have been able to spot our pitchers and hitters where they'll do the most good." . . . He probably will have to do a lot of spotting, because the Bucs' schedule called for five games in four days in New York and Brooklyn before moving into Boston Friday. And a couple of doubleheaders in Philadelphia follow. . . . "The games are piling up and that hurts," says Meyer. "But we'll just keep on going as far as we can."

NO STARS, EH?

Meyer still is chuckling over Ralph Kiner's pinch home run in Chicago the other day. . . . The way Billy tells it, Kiner was so sick that day he could hardly stand, but when Meyer tried to send him back to the hotel, Ralph refused because "I might be able to hit one." . . . Late in the game, with the Bucs behind, Meyer decided the time was ripe. . . . "I wanted to put him in for Murtaugh because he hits that long ball," says Bill, "but we couldn't get him dressed in time. So Danny had to go up and he got a hit. Fitzgerald was next but I had used up all my catchers and couldn't take him out. He got on too. . . . Kiner finally came up and missed the first two that far (indicating about two feet). Then he hit one over there (pointing toward the left field stands) and nobody ever saw it again."

CLEANING THE CUFF

Smart pro football men say the Bears and Giants are "a year away." Too many untried youngsters to be real threats to such experienced clubs as the Packers and Eagles. . . . Duke's publicity dept. is concerned about an "All-America knee" belonging to Tackle Al Derogatis. . . . That's really carrying the All-America idea to the limit—something like Grant Rice's idea of picking a 150-pound All-America for pocket-size magazines. . . . 'Doxie Moore, new National Basketball league commissioner, has set up shop at Lafayette, Ind., Piggy Lambert's headquarters. . . . Dixie Walker, who needs only about a dozen more hits for a lifetime total of 2,000, explains: "They've been falling in for me—but sometimes its tough as heck to get a dozen hits."

Hector Brown of the pennant-winnings miners shut out the Utica Blue Sox in a three-hitter that ended 11-0.

The Chiefs battered four Albany moundsmen with 24 hits and scored 22-11 on the second-place club. The winners fashioned three five-run innings. They netted 10 runs on four homers.

LOUIS DELAYS FINAL DECISION

Philadelphia, Sept. 15 (AP)—Joe Louis intends to take the full six months to decide whether he'll retire as heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

The brown bomber, who previously said his June 25 fight against Jersey Joe Walcott was his last, told delegates to the National Boxing association dinner last night:

"I have six months from the date of my last fight to make known my plans of retirement and until that time I should be known as the heavyweight champion of the world."

He then turned to Abe Greene, president of the NBA, and said: Mr. Greene at the end of six months you'll have my answer on whether I'll retire or fight again on your desk."

To a reporter's query as to whether he would fight again, Joe replied: "I don't know. Maybe yes, maybe no."

Greene said he would even consider Louis the champ after Dec. 25 if he decides to continue fighting and there is no worthy opponent.

Old Paper Reveals Interesting Games

Neely J. Taughinbaugh, Hunterstown, is the possessor of a copy of the Philadelphia North American of Sunday, June 24, 1906, which tells of an 8-0 triumph of the late Eddie Plank over the Boston Red Sox in an American Baseball league game on the previous day.

Plank hurled for the Athletics, fanned six and did not issue a base on balls.

On the same day Christy Matthewson, a World Series rival of Plank, pitched the New York Giants to a 5-0 win over the Phillies.

Senators Blast At Opponents' Parties

(By The Associated Press)

Pennsylvania's November election campaign came into full focus today, with both Democrats and Republicans serving notice that Communism, government spending, and foreign policy will be prime issues. Both parties sent their Congressional leaders to the stump last night to keynote their campaign strategy.

Speaking from opposite ends of the state, Senators Edward Martin and Francis J. Myers took turns blasting their opponent parties.

At Philadelphia, Myers, in a address before Democratic leaders and office candidates, declared that "a Republican victory in November would be the best thing that happened to the Communist party since the banks shut down in 1932."

And at Brockway, Martin told a regional meeting of businessmen from 10 northwestern counties, that a government "is subject to the same economic laws as a private business."

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)

The Sunbury Reds and the White Roses were in a position today to clinch their Interstate league semi-final playoff series.

The Reds who finished fourth in the league season, downed the second place Trenton Giants 8-4 last night to take a 3-2 advantage in the best-of-seven games series.

The White Roses, third place club in the pennant race, defeated the Wilmington Blue Rocks 3-1. York has now won three games to Wilmington's one in the seven-game set-to.

Sunbury travels to Trenton for the sixth game tonight while Wilmington will play at York again.

Today's Talk

LEAVING YOURSELF BEHIND

There isn't a day in which we do not do something that has its effect, not only upon our own life, but upon the life of someone else, be that ever so simple and apparently unnoticed. All the time we are leaving something of ourself behind.

We do not give this fact much thought, but it would be well if we did. It would inspire us to better works, better planning, and higher thought. All kindness is progressive. You never know how far it extends. A kindness to another inspires a kindness on the part of the one who receives it—and on it goes!

The influence and good works that everyone leaves behind keep radiating. We read inspiring books that were written by men and women hundreds of years ago. The thoughts expressed were by living people—and so long as these words are read, their authors live. That's why books are such great friends. They are what great minds left behind.

I carry in my memory one of the most beautiful private gardens that I have ever seen. Its creator long ago went to his reward—but the garden stayed, and blooms in all its colorful beauty to this day. He left much more behind, as well, for his friends were legion, and his usefulness scattered afar. A memorial to the poet Wordsworth was a field of daffodils. He left his love of beauty behind. And in life his library was in the out-of-doors.

He who plants a tree, or who gives of his earnings to a library, hospital, or other good use, leaves much of himself behind. And these are monuments not for a moment to be compared with bronze or marble. They are liquid monuments—always alive.

Parting friends exchange the gift of themselves. Both become enriched. We feel that something has gone out of us when we part. But that something of the other remains with us. Even the beloved spot of earth, that has brought beauty and happiness to us, absorbs our very footsteps, so that something of us there remains to mingle with the grasses, the moss, and the rich earth.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Without Trouble."

Just Folks

LOOKS vs. SPEECH

Question a wife and she will say
She needn't ask how went the day.
If she can glimpse him through the pane
When he is coming home again,
The way he walks the street will tell
If everything for him went well.

If head be down and step be slow,
That something's wrong she'll surely know.
But if he walks with rapid stride,
Head high, and swelled his chest with pride,
Before there's time a word to say
She'll know he's had a happy day.

Full well I know we men are made
That strangely are our moods displayed.
The drooping chin, the downcast eye,
The dragging step can never lie.
They tell, when men are trouble tried,
What they with speech would try to hide.

Ask any wife, she'll say this look
Is clearer than an open book.
His every action will display
At but a glance, how went the day.
All's told before a word is said,
By how her husband holds his head.

THE JEFFFRY—Under economical hipped roof lies a world of charm and livability. The design takes advantage of the planning axiom that the closer a house approaches the perfect square, the cheaper it is to build. This house, 35 feet by 28 feet, is the almost square house. It is a compact four room house, becomes five rooms by enclosing the dining porch. A heater room makes it possible to save the cost of basement. The 18 foot living room, has the luxury of an open fireplace. All rooms have cross ventilation. This attractive, functional home meets the standards of FHA. Electrical plans approved by National Adequate Wiring Bureau to insure maximum electrical efficiency at a minimum cost. DRIVE ON SENATE SEATS QUICKENS

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP) — The Republican high command stepped up its senatorial campaign today, spurred by an AFL challenge and confidential reports that Democrats now threaten four key GOP seats.

Senator Capehart of Indiana told a reporter he has accepted an invitation to join Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's western tour next week to help the GOP presidential nominee give what aid he can to the party's Senate candidates.

The Indiana Senator said it will be his job to see that the GOP nominees in Iowa, Colorado and New Mexico get together with the New York governor for strategy conferences.

Their hold in the Senate now is slim, with only a 51 to 45 margin over the Democrats—a margin that would be overturned if the GOP suffers a net loss of four seats.

The AFL served notice yesterday that it intends to fight for the defeat of at least eight Republican senatorial candidates, as well as 113 house aspirants. Because of their stand on the Taft-Hartley law, the AFL blacklisted these Republicans: Senators Henry Dworshak of Idaho, Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota, C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, Edward V. Robertson of Wyoming, Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia, and George Wilson of Iowa; and senatorial candidates Patrick J. Hurley of New Mexico and Ross Rizley of Oklahoma.

Car Cut In Two By Train; Driver Lives

Lansdale, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP) — William Howe, 46, Hatfield, Pa., is being treated at a hospital today for shock and possible internal injuries after his automobile was cut in half by an electric train.

The Philadelphia-to-Doylestown Reading train struck Howe's car in the rear at a grade crossing a mile north of Lansdale yesterday, scattering wreckage along the tracks. The front half of the auto, with Howe trapped inside, was thrown to one side.

Barn Construction Survey Reported

The latest comprehensive, controlled test made to determine the effect of stabling conditions on a dairy herd's milk production reveals that poor housing cost $4.81 a day in lost production. Milk output dropped from 16,025 pounds in the first 15 days of the test to 12,880 pounds in the final 15 days.

The 60-day test showed that cows kept in a drafty, uninsulated barn became ill, fluctuated widely in production and even died. A similar herd housed in a modern barn insulated full-thick with mineral wool and mechanically ventilated, maintained a steady rate of output. The owner of this barn stated he realized a 42 per cent return on his investment in ventilating euipment and insulation.

Complete details of the test, reported in a 16-page illustrated pamphlet, may be obtained without cost by writing the Construction Research Bureau, 12 East 41st Street, New York city. The uninsulated barn used in the test was selected from among those surveyed by the New Jersey College of Agriculture, when it made its 162-barn survey. The insulated barn was built from plans provided by the college.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT
Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress
Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.
Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.
To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.
Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Helpful Tips For Home Builders

NEW LIGHTING IDEAS USED IN MODERN HOUSES

Electric lighting engineers have kept pace with new trends in home-building and today lighting fixtures are available to augment anv architectural plan or decorative scheme.

One of the newer developments is a fixture which combines direct incandescent illumination and indirect fluorescent lighting. This fills a long-standing need in dining-rooms. A reflector centers incandescent rays on the table and the fluorescent tubes flood the room with light. The idea also is used in kitchens.

Fluorescent-lighted bookcases and china cupboards create novel and dramatic effects. Vertical tubes mounted behind moldings on the face of bookcases are coming into use, while tubes in the tops of china cabinets, equipped with glass shelves, shed light through the whole interior. This effectively sets off collections of fine china and glass.

A new cove lighting has recently come into use whereby fluorescent tubes are recessed into the ceiling with the side walls serving as reflectors. This overcomes a difficulty formerly experienced in low-ceilinged houses when tubes were mounted in the walls with the ceiling as a reflecting surface.

Urge State Action To Conserve Fuel

Recommendations that governors of all 48 states take immediate action to conserve available fuel supplies next winter have been made by a U. S. Senate committtee as a result of predictions of another fuel famine.

The committee urges that governors "initiate a sound compaign of conservation of gasoline and petroleum products," and that the office of Emergency Fuel Coordinator be established or reactivated in each state and the District of Columbia.

Action by the Senate committee followed testimony by Robert Friedman, assistant director of the Interior Department Oil and Gas Division, that the Fuel oil supply outlook is not bright.

The committee said an immediate survey of the whole fuel situation should be made so the nation will know how critical the expected shortage will become.

Principal means of fuel conservation advocated by government experts is winterizing of homes with storm sash, weatherstripping and insulation.

Real Estate Dealer Aid To Home Buyer

Reputable real estate dealers have a distinct and important function in the buying and selling of homes and their services are invaluable to both parties of the transaction.

Under today's legal regulations and through codes of ethics established by real estate men themselves, no buyer nor seller need hesitate in dealing with an established realty broker.

Most real estate dealers have lived in the community for many years. They have a keen knowledge of values, population trends and future development, and their appraisal of property is usually accurate and honest. They help both parties with all legal and other details attendant to the sale with which the average layman is entirely unfamiliar.

Not only are buyer and seller protected by law from dishonest brokers, but practically all real estate men wish to remain in business and hence they cannot afford to engage in practices which will hurt their reputation.

New Book Issued On House Repair

Arranging in dictionary form for quick reference to fill a long-felt need of home-owners, a 430-page book, "The Encyclopedia of Home Care and Repair," has just been published by Lantern Press, Inc., New York city.

Written by William J. Hennessey, architectural and research editor of American Home magazine, and William W. Atkin, assistant architectural editor of the same publication, the book covers every conceivable subject of interest to the modern homeowner.

Profusely illustrated with diagrams to augment the text, the encyclopedia defines all building terms, describes every structural part of the house, discusses how to locate and repair damage. Step-by-step instructions are given so that countless repairs can be made by the homeowner himself without calling an expert.

Court Refuses To Lift Coal Tax Ban

Sunbury, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—The Northumberland county court rejected a coal township school district request to remove an injunction restraining the district from levying a 10-cents a ton tax on strip-mined coal.

At the same time, Judge Robert M. Fortney announced that no further oral arguments will be heard in the case, and that briefs will be filed next Monday.

The requests for removal of the preliminary injunction, granted by Judge Forney last Thursday to four coal companies, was made yesterday by John L. Pipa, Jr., school board solicitor. The tax was to have gone into effect last Friday.

Pipa said that the township could not assess an amusement or occupation tax to raise funds "since practically everyone living in the township is a miner or laborer and they have a hard enough time to get along as it is." He added that "the only thing left to tax was coal."

Expect Increase In Steel Yield

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Further increases in steel production are in the cards.

The National Metalworking Weekly, Iron Age, says at the present production rate—95 per cent of capacity—the industry will turn out as much as 87,000,000 or 88,000,000 tons of steel ingots this year. And output in 1949 may hit 94,000,000 tons without much new basic equipment, the weekly adds.

Blast furnaces and open hearths will account for a part of the increased production, but most of it will be due to refinements such as use of oxygen, coal washing, increased use of sintered ore and other production techniques.

For instance, U. S. Steel at its Chicago plant expects to turn out a million more tons in 1949 than it did this year. And the biggest of the steel producers expects to do it with the same equipment.

AMPLIFIER AIDS FLUOROSCOPE

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP)—A fluoroscopic screen that produces images of internal organs nearly as clearly as pictures on a movie screen was described today to a convention of x-ray specialists.

John W. Coleman of the Westinghouse research laboratories, East Pittsburgh, Pa., said the amplifier increases the brightness of fluoroscopic images 500 times.

It will present detail which at present is indiscernible and will cut down the time required for examinations, he said in a talk prepared for the American Roentgen Ray society.

In some cases, fluoroscopic screens have an advantage over ordinary x-ray pictures in that the physician can see a patient's organs actually functioning. Their present disadvantage is the dimness of the image appearing on the screen.

Coleman said the amplifier, which is being constructed at Westinghouse, converts the usual x-ray pattern into an electronic stream. These electrons then are accelerated to high velocities and thrown on a phosphor layer. The impact produces the bright image. The present equipment uses x-rays which produce luminous image when they hit a chemically-treated screen.

Coleman said the amplifier, when perfected, could be attached to standard fluoroscopic equipment now in use in hospitals and doctor's offices.

There were about 1,600,000 business firms in the United States in 1900 and about 3,796,000 in 1947.

TEN YEARS AGO CHAMBERLAIN AND HITLER MET

The following is the first of three articles on the anniversary of British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's world-rocking attempt to appease Hitler, as eye-witnessed by the writer.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

This day ten years ago your columnist boarded a chartered plane in London and pursued Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, who was flying to Adolf Hitler's Alpine retreat at Berchtesgaden, in the British statesman's first efforts at appeasing the Nazi dictator.

That was the beginning of three tense weeks which changed the history of the world. Those dramatic day were part of my journalistic life, and I venture to recall them briefly in our column because after only one decade we again are faced with an international situation having momentous potentialities.

The 69-year-old Chamberlain—an honest and highminded but unlucky statesman—flew to Berchtesgaden in an effort to "try to find a peaceful solution to the crisis" which was menacing world tranquility. The phrase "peace in our time" was an irresistible magnet, and so the gaunt, gray, gentle old man made a date with the mad-dog dictator.

Tense Atmosphere

War seemed to be approaching with terrible swiftness. Anthony Eden, who had resigned his position as British Foreign Secretary because of opposition to his Prime Minister's policy, was insisting that concessions to dictators "are not the way to peace." On September 12 Hitler made an angry speech demanding "self — determination" for the Sudeten Germans in western Czechoslovakia. Britain had a mission in Prague to mediate between the Sudeten Germans and the Czechoslovak government, but its efforts collapsed. There was bloody fighting near the German frontier between Czechoslovak gendarmes and Sudeten Germans. The British cabinet met in emergency session.

It was in this tense atmosphere that Chamberlain telegraphed Hitler for a conference, which the Fuehrer set for Berchtesgaden. French Premier Daladier had urged Chamberlain to make the effort. France pinned her hope of peace on this fateful parley.

The Prime Minister never had flown before and his experience should have been a premonition of dire events, for he became very airsick (as did I) and ordered his plane to land so he could continue by train. Chamberlain didn't know there could be such evil persons as Hitler. He thought that right must triumph.

Czech Sacrifice

So the two chiefs of government met in the Fuehrer's "castle" on a peak rising from the sweet valley of Berchtesgaden. Within a few hours the little, old-world hamlet was jammed with correspondents from many points of Europe. Telegraph and telephone facilities were utterly inadequate to deal with the press messages. However, we managed to tell our story of the three hour conference, and I find from the files that I reported as follows:

It was clear to observers that if peace grew from the conference it would be predicated on the sacrifice by Czechoslovakia of some Sudeten territory to Germany. The supposition in informed circles was that Chamberlain would take back a proposal relating to the annexation of Sudeten Germans by Hitler.

Time confirmed this. However, the communique issued at the end of the conversation merely said that there had been "an extended, frank exchange of views," and that there would be another meeting.

35 AMERICANS, EN ROUTE HOME, KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH IN KOREA

By WILLIAM R. MOORE

Seoul, Sept. 15 (AP)—A fast passenger train roaring out of a tunnel last night crashed into another train halted on the track killing 35 homeward bound American soldiers.

Two Koreans were killed and 120 persons were injured, including 80 American troops. They were bound for Seoul from Pusan (Fusan).

Witnesses said the fast train from Mokpo to Seoul, which had no headlight, telescoped the rear of the troop train, which had no rear light.

Failed To See Other Train

One passenger on the soldiers' train likened the wreck and subsequent fire to a Dante's Inferno. Rescue workers worked all night digging out the dead and injured.

The 35 American bodies were brought here early today. The injured were treated by American and Korean doctors and many of them were able to continue their journey.

Charles McCafferty of Chicago, a passenger, said the engineer of the Mokpo train apparently did not see the other train until it was 50 yards away.

Many Jumped Off

The engine plowed half way into the rear coach from which most of the passengers had jumped when the other train roared from the tunnel.

The rear coach was ripped from its trucks and shoved into the coach ahead, where most of the casualties occurred.

"We saw the train come out of the tunnel about 1,000 yards away," said McCafferty, a labor relations adviser to the military government in the American zone. "We yelled to the passengers and all got off except one man in the washroom who was not hurt seriously."

Army officials said relatives of the dead were being notified but it may be necessary to bring personnel records from outlying detachments to complete identifications.

Death Toll On Pa. Highways Declines

Harrisburg, Sept. 15 (AP)—Highway accidents brought death to 799 persons in Pennsylvania during the first seven months of the year.

This is still 6.1 per cent under the fatality rate for the same period in 1947, the State Bureau of Highway Safety reported. The toll for the period last year was 851.

The biggest drop in the seven-month period was in urban accidents which went down 11.8 per cent. The rate in rural sections declined only 1.8 per cent.

In July, there were 131 persons killed compared with 140 a year ago. The decrease was due entirely to a drop in urban accidents. Those in rural sections went up 3.4 per cent.

The bureau noted it is the first time since 1943 that there has been a decrease in highway fatalities in July over the previous year.

DRIVER KILLED

Pottstown, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP)—John Brendon, 21, Philadelphia, was killed last night as his truck skidded and overturned on an unfinished portion of Route 63 near Parkerford, Chester county. Police said Brendon, delivering some X-ray developers to the Phoenixville, Pa., hospital, apparently did not see road markers until too late to stop at the section of highway now being constructed.

SEEK SUPPORT ON VIVISECTION

Harrisburg, Sept. 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania physicians and surgeons today were asked "to stand up and be counted" on the controversial question of animal experimentation.

The plea was made by the committee on defense of medical research of the Medical Society of Pennsylvania, headed by Dr. J. Parsons Schaeffer, professor emeritus of anatomy at the Jefferson medical college.

"We must proclaim everywhere and at all times the outstanding and immense benefits that have resulted from animal experimentation rather than reply only to the misleading statements, false accusations and half-truths of the opponents of medical progress," the committee stated in the Pennsylvania Medical Journal.

The committee said "A large number of medical men must take an active and positive interest" in the cause if the dogs and other animals needed in medical schools for research are to be available.

It also asked that civic groups be asked to join the movement, adding: "While many lay people manifest an interest in the achievements of scientific medicine through animal experimentation, too few have the problems well enough in hand to speak and act as effectively as they would like."

34 New Cases Of Polio In Penna.

Harrisburg, Sept. 15 (AP)—Thirty-four new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Pennsylvania this week, bringing the year's total to 372.

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, deputy health secretary, said however, the increase does not indicate an epidemic year. He added that the coming of frost will greatly reduce the number of new cases.

A majority of the new cases reported this week were from the Philadelphia area. Philadelphia listed 19 new cases while Montgomery added five. The others were scattered around the state.

Philadelphia also leads the 46 counties reporting cases with 104. Delaware has listed 40 while Montgomery is third with 30 cases. The total cases in Pennsylvania up to this time last year was 251.

The United States has about six per cent of the world's population and produces about 12 per cent of the world's food.

Tibet has no railroads and no highways.

SOROPTIMISTS

Servis, general secretary of the American Federation of Soroptimist clubs, will be the speaker. For the month of December, the business meeting will be cancelled. The annual program of gift-giving to children from the county Child Welfare Services and the club Christmas party was announced by Mrs. Buehler.

Mrs. Griest announced the reappointment of Mrs. Hennig as chairman of the Civic committee.

Letter From China

Old business was transacted following the opening of the meeting with the pledge to the flag, the minutes of the June 8 meeting and the roll call of members and included reports of chairmen of standing committees for the 1947-1948 year. The yearly reports were made by Miss Hartman, treasurer; Mrs. Eva Pape, membership; Mrs. Wilmer Bream, attendance; Miss Virginia Myers, finance; Mrs. David Blocher, hospitality; Mrs. Violet Hill, ways and means; Mrs. Hennig, civic, and Mrs. C. T. Ziegler, publicity. Mrs. Griest extended her thanks and appreciation to all committee chairmen and members for the work of the past year.

"If only the leaders of the nations who were our Allies during the war would think of others as the Soroptimists do, the world would not be threatened again by war" Dr. Charles Chang, from Lanchow, China, wrote to the Soroptimist committee on Chinese Contacts which is located in New York city, in thanking them for their contributions for the Chinese School of Nursing. The quotation was contained in a letter of thanks to the local Soroptimist club from the New York committee for its annual contribution of $25 toward the Nursing fund. The letter was read by the club president, Mrs. Frederic E. Griest, of Flora Dale. A letter of thanks was also read from Mrs. Frank H. Kramer, treasurer of the Auxiliary of the Warner hospital for an annual contribution of $25 for the club-sponsorship of a room in the Musselman annex.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Milo Gallinger, Guernsey, thanked the club members for their assistance to her in the recent conference of the American Weavers' association. She presented gifts to those members who served as ushers at a reception in Brua chapel on the opening night of the conference. Next year the group will meet in Los Angeles, California, Mrs. Gallinger said.

Miss Hartman won the draw prize of the evening which was donated by Miss Foth. The resignation of Mrs. Horace Armor, Brookline, was accepted with regret by the board of directors at a meeting of the board preceding the business session.

DELAY STREET

weeks or months. Blaine G. Walter expressed what would happen by saying "We'd be in mud all winter."

To Act In February

Council agreed its first job was to hurry the construction of the street as fast as possible so the town could start using the street. Then it set its February meeting as the time when the petition from the citizens asking that the stream be removed will be considered. "If we start in February we will be able to start work on the moving of the stream as soon as things open up next spring," a councilman said.

The state Highway Department has promised to widen South Main street to its proper 48 foot width as soon as the stream is removed, Earl E. Ecker, secretary of council, pointed out in reading over minutes of sessions with the state officials held earlier.

Two other problems in connection with the new street were discussed by council. One was the reason for making it 48 feet in width, which has brought some comment from citizens. Council read the original charter making the town a borough in 1903 which showed that the North and South Main streets are to be 60 feet wide with a 48 foot roadbed and six-foot pavements on each side. "That's the law and we can't change it," council pointed out.

Ask Cooperation

Another was the problem of street delays caused by some owners of drainage pipes which extend across the street. Reports presented at council showed that at least one drainage pipe owner held up progress for several weeks before he would extend his drainage pipe to the far side of the road. Council did not go into the problem, however, other than to note it and urge better cooperation, pointing out that the lack of a street has been costing merchants along Main street a tremendous sum in lost business.

The finance committee, comprising Earle M. Garretson, Roy Himes and Harry Geiselman, and the officers of council, were authorized to borrow up to $10,000 in order to pay the $12,000 to the state upon completion of the road. The full $10,000 will not be needed, it was thought, but the motion was passed to "have the money available if needed." Savings of $3,000 plus some money from the $6,000 operational fund will be available toward the $12,000 council's motion added.

The highway committee was authorized to get an engineer to lay out a grade line for Rice avenue, following a request for a grade by O. A. Nary, who is planning construction of a curb along the street at his property. Council also discussed the possibility of having an engineer set grades for all streets in the borough — so that it would have something "in writing to go by when people want to put down sidewalks."

AVERT CLASH AT OIL PLANT

Richmond, Calif., Sept. 15 (AP) — Another clash between CIO pickets and police at the strike-bound Standard Oil company refinery was averted today when no attempt was made to pass more AFL maintenance workers through the picket lines.

Yesterday such a move erupted into a rock and tear gas battle in which nine persons were injured.

Today the union maintained only the assigned four pickets at each gate to the refinery, but several hundred other strikers gathered at the union headquarters, just around the corner from the main gate of the refinery, and another hundred or more loitered across the street from the gate where the fighting broke out yesterday.

From eight to 10 police, many in white riot helmets patroled gates to the plant.

Shortly after 7 a.m., a union loudspeaker advised the assembled pickets to cooperate with reporters and photographers, in an effort to avoid the roughing up given several newspaper photograhers in the fighting yesterday.

At about 7:30 a.m., President Jim Stanley of the striking CIO oil workers broadcast an announcement to non-strikers, inside the gates since yesterday, that they could "leave now if you want."

A barrel of crude oil usually contains about 870 cubic feet of gas in solution.

NO ACCORD ON ITALY'S EMPIRE BY BIG FOUR

By HARVEY HUDSON

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP)—The problem of what to do about Italy's prewar empire in Africa went to the United Nations today for decision.

Representatives of the Big Four powers—Russia, the United States, Britain and France—wrangled over the question until 3 o'clock this morning, but agreed on only one thing: That they could not agree.

By the terms of the Italian peace treaty, signed a year ago today, the problem now passes to the United Nations assembly. The assembly convenes here next Tuesday. The veto does not apply there.

In two days of conferences, the Big Four delegates—summoned to consider the future of Eritrea, Libia and Somaliland—spent most of their time arguing about whether they had the necessary authority to do anything. Russia said they hadn't because only France had a foreign ministry present.

When they did get down to the question at hand, Russia demanded that all three colonies be placed under international trusteeship. The western powers said no. The western powers got together on a proposal to put Somaliland under Italian trusteeship. Russia blocked that.

In Washington, the State Department announced that the United States is backing a British proposal to turn over Cirenaica, one of Libia's three provinces, to Britain, under U. N. trusteeship, until independence can be achieved.

This morning's final Big Four session—concluding almost 15 hours of continuous argument—was unable even to agree on how to notify the United Nations that the four great powers were unable to agree. The western powers said Secretary-General Trygve Lie should be told in a letter from the Foreign Ministers council.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, said the meetings here were not sessions of the Foreign Ministers' Council, since only France had a man of that rank present.

Only 12 members of the New York Football Yankees were with the team when it and the All-America pro conference were organized two years ago.

FOUNDRY VISIT

R. Reck. The meeting was in charge of the vocational service committee, consisting of George P. Smith, chairman, Arthur E. Bair, Lloyd L. Stavely and Frank J. Krocak. The same committee will have charge next week.

All the members of the Alpha Fire company No. 1 who will participate in the parade in Hanover on Thursday evening are to meet at the fire house at 6 p.m.

Federation Meeting

The Executive Board of the Adams County Federation of Women's clubs held a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Clayton L. Evans, South Queen street. They decided to hold the fall meeting on Wednesday, October 13, at Gettysburg. Plans for that meeting were discussed. Those attending the meeting in addition to the president were Mrs. Ralph Oyler, secretary and Mrs. R. S. Saby, Gettysburg; Mrs. Joseph R. Riden, treasurer, Mrs. Charles W. Weikert, Mrs. Leon H. Gage, Mrs. Emma H. Mehring and Mrs. John LeGore, Littlestown.

The second round of the elimination softball contests began on Tuesday evening with the team of Redeemer's Reformed church defeating the Furniture factory by a score of 11 to 4. Tonight, the elimination will continue with the contest being between the Mystic Chain and the Eagles.

Class Elects Officers

The annual elections were conducted by the Loyalty class of St. Paul's Lutheran church at their monthly meeting Monday evening in the Sunday school room. Mrs. Robert Gouker was elected president. Other officers elected were: vice president, Mrs. Aaron Rohrbaugh; secretary, Mrs. Clair D. Worley; assistant secretary, Mrs. J. Ray Reindollar; treasurer, Mrs. Esther Wolfe; cheer committee, Mrs. Charles Kump, chairman, Mrs. Esther Wolfe and Mrs. H. Dean Stover.

Mrs. Robert Gouker, who is the retiring vice president, conducted the business of the evening. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Luther Ritter and the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Richard A. Little. A number of contests were held and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Esther Wolfe and Mrs. J. Ray Reindollar. The guess package contributed by Mrs. H. Dean Stover was received by Mrs. Richard A. Little. Refreshments were served by the hostess committee with Mrs. Stewart Jacobs, chairman, assisted by the members of group two. The next meeting of the class will be held Monday, October 11.

Attending Seminary

The Rev. Grantas E. Hoopert, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, Littlestown, registered this week as a second year student in the Westminster Theological seminary, Westminster, Md. The seminay, one of the ten graduate theological schools of the Methodist church, began its 66th year on Tuesday with a special chapel program at 9:45 a. m. to acquaint the first year students with the program of the institution.

Dr. Earl H. Furgeson, newly elected professor of preaching, parish administration and worship, gave the matriculation address at a special convocation in the seminary chapel on Tuesday evening. This convocation, together with the reception that followed in the home of the president, Lester A. Welliver, was attended by the Rev. and Mrs. Hoopert.

Registration began Monday afternoon when the largest incoming class in the school's history was enrolled. Students and faculty joined in a picnic supper at Harvey Stone park. The student body this year includes five students from abroad and representatives of many sections of the United States. The first year class includes graduates from 18 different colleges.

SPY PROBERS TO PUSH TEST CASE FOR "CONTEMPT"

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—Congressional spy probers intend to make a test case of contempt action they voted to bring against Communist Steve Nelson.

What they want to test is whether any witness has the right to refuse to answer questions of a Congressional committee on grounds he might incriminate himself.

More contempt charges appeared likely to come out of another Congressional investigation of Communist power, in the CIO Fur and Leather Workers union.

A House Labor subcommittee called in seven officers of the union for questioning today. It had one question ready for all of them: Are you or have you ever been a Communist?

Expects Citations

Chairman Max Schwabe (R.-Mo.) said he expected the witness to refuse to answer. "I think," he told reporters, "we will have some citations for contempt of Congress coming up. In fact, I am certain of it."

Nelson is chairman of the Communist district committee for western Pennsylvania. He thus identified himself yesterday in a statement to reporters. And he said that from 1941 to 1945 he was a Communist party organizer for Alameda county, California.

But he refused to tell a House un-American Activities subcommittee whether he is a Communist. And he refused to answer other questions on grounds he might incriminate himself.

The subcommittee promptly and unanimously voted last night to ask the full committee to cite Nelson for contempt at its next session. If it does, then Speaker Martin (R.-Mass.) will be asked to pass the case along to the U. S. attorney here for prosecution.

Billy Booe, Yale's place kicking expert, knows enough to keep his head down when booting those extra points. He's captain of the Yale golf team.

Seek Fake "Priest" As Auto Swindler

Boston, Sept. 15 (AP) — A man disguised as a priest was sought today on a charge of swindling a Boston car dealer of $1,900.

Police said the man—carrying a prayer book and a Bible—"sold" the Jackson Square Motors, Inc., an automobile he had rented an hour earlier from the Columbia Motor Mileage corporation, in the Roxbury district.

Authorities said the swindler called the Jackson Square firm and told the manager he was "sending in a priest" who had been reassigned and wanted to sell his car before leaving for a new parish.

Forty-five minutes later, wearing the black garb of a priest, he arrived at the used car company, completed the deal within a matter of minutes and left. Shortly afterward, the purchasing concern discovered the machine had been rented.

YANK AIRMEN BACK SAFELY

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 15 (AP) — Two American airmen who parachuted into the Soviet Zone of Germany are back safely today in the U. S. zone, the air force announced.

The two are Capt. Kenneth W. Slaker, Lincoln, Neb., and Lt. Clarence R. Steber, Mobile, Ala. The announcement said the two bailed out over the Russian zone early yesterday when their plane developed engine trouble.

Steber was brought to Frankfurt by U. S. liaison officers.

Slaker, pilot of the C-47, which was ferrying food from Wiesbaden to Berlin, was said to have been turned over to constabulary units on the Russian border shortly after midnight. He was flown to air force headquarters in Wiesbaden.

Air force officials said Slaker suffered a minor back sprain in jumping from the plane after it developed engine trouble.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency in Berlin said the transport was flying 10 to 15 miles outside the air corridor to Berlin "and thereby violated air regulations."

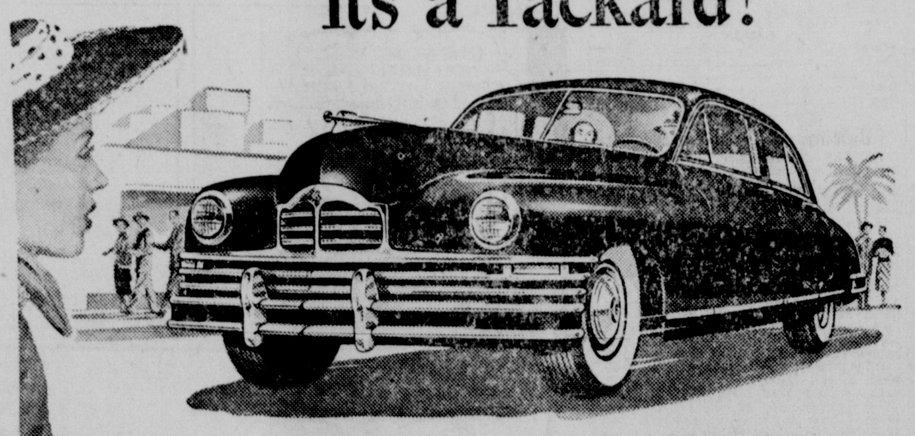
You just know it's a Packard!



There's a story of exclusive values behind these exclusive lines. Come in—see for yourself!

When you point to this proud, glistening grille, any schoolboy can tell you it's a Packard . . . the car that still looks like itself!

That's because the Packard radiator grille, for nearly 50 years, has been a trademark of precision-built character.

Packard, for example, has always meant precision-built engines. And Packard today is winning new fame with the amazing economy of its new "free-breathing" straight eights!

Packard has always meant masterful roadability. And Packard leads again today—with a "self-controlling" suspension system.

Packard has always meant precision workmanship. And today's Packards are the finest-built Packards ever to bear the name!

It all adds up to a story we'd like to tell you in full . . . and soon!

Gettysburg, Oldest Lutheran College In America, Has Distinguished History

Founded In 1832, It Has Graduated 6,500 Men And Women To Many Professions

ON NOVEMBER 7, Gettysburg college will pass the 116th anniversary of the admission of the first students to its doors.

In its distinguished history since its beginnings in 1832 as a preparatory school for the parent institution, the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, it has graduated approximately 6,500 men and women.

The achievements of those alumni, not only in the Lutheran ministry but in every profession and in many other walks of life throughout this nation and abroad, have added to the stature of the college.

Oldest Lutheran College

The oldest Lutheran college in America, Gettysburg has continued in the course set by its founder, Dr. Samuel Schmucker, that the college be "unsectarian in its instructions but at the same time be prevailingly under Lutheran influence and control."

Gettysburg college has contributed leaders in many occupations to American society. Recent studies of alumni records have shown that among the graduates of the college are more than 1,600 preachers, more than 50 missionaries, more than 1,100 teachers in elementary and secondary schools, more than 450 college instructors, about 60 college presidents, approximately 450 lawyers and judges, about 600 doctors, 75 dentists, nearly 500 engineers and scientists, 1,700 businessmen and about 2,000 others in other occupations.

Approximately 100 graduates are serving their country as military leaders. During World War II, more than 75 per cent of the 1,400 alumni in the armed forces were commissioned officers. One reason for the distinction achieved by Gettysburg alumni in the armed forces is that Gettysburg college has the oldest Reserve Officers Training Corps units in the nation in a private college. Established in 1916, the Corps here has trained nearly 2,500 men and has issued Reserve commissions to nearly 500 of them.

Early Backgrounds

The backgrounds of Gettysburg college reach far back into the history of Gettysburg—from early days an educational center—and of the Lutheran church in this country.

With the establishment of the Seminary in 1826, the need for a school to furnish the necessary classical background for the theological studies became apparent.

The Seminary had opened in the fall of 1826 and in May of the next year when its board met, the president and chief founder of the Seminary observed in his report that many of the young men who had registered as students lacked the classical training for the study of theology.

Formed "Classical School"

His solution to the problem was a recommendation for the establishment of a classical department in connection with the Seminary. His words marked the formal beginnings of the move that led five years later to the opening of Gettysburg college.

The Seminary board acted on its president's recommendation and a month later a newspaper announcement told of plans for opening the "Gettysburg Classical School."

Chartered By State

The newspaper advertisement went on to point out that "the situation at Gettysburg is pleasant and healthy and the inhabitants are normal, hospitable and intelligent. Boarding may be had in respectable families at $1.50 a week. Price of tuition $6 per quarter or $24 per year." The school opened as advertised on June 25, 1827, with but two students but the number swiftly increased.

In August, 1829, the school became the Gettysburg Gymnasium but continued to occupy rooms in a building at the corner of West High and South Washington streets also used by the seminary.

By 1831, Dr. Schmucker, not satisfied with the courses offered by the Gymnasium which he headed, turned to the citizens of Gettysburg to discuss the possibility of "erecting the Gettysburg Gymnasium into a college."

With the support and encouragement of local citizens and Lutheran clergymen in the area, Dr. Schmucker went to Harrisburg, wrote a charter for the new college there within the space of a few hours and submitted it to the Legislature. Staying on the scene to insure passing of the chartering act, Dr. Schmucker convinced the lawmakers with the logic and persuasiveness of his arguments and on April 7, 1832, the institution was chartered as "Pennsylvania College of Gettysburg."

Important July Fourth

On the Fourth of July, 1832, public exercises with ceremony and oratory proclaimed the organization of the college and on November 7 of that year the institution opened for the registration of students.

The first students matriculated December 15, 1832, with three juniors, eight sophomores, 12 freshmen and 40 preparatorians. The second year began with an enrollment of 80 in the college and preparatory school and the attendance continued to increase yearly for some time.

Turned down at first in its requests for state aid, the college with the aid of Thaddeus Stevens, then the legislator from Adams county, secured a state appropriation of $18,000.

Stevens had a cow pasture northwest of the town and turned that over to the college as the site for its new home. Early in 1836, work began on the present site of the college with Pennsylvania Hall, better known as Old Dorm, the first structure to be erected. It was occupied in 1837 and housed the entire college. The students slept there, ate there and went to chapel twice daily in the same building.

At first, students coming to Gettysburg college arrived by stagecoach from more distant points. Others who lived nearby—within 50 miles—walked here for their higher education. With the coming of the railroad in 1860, more speedy and less arduous means of transportation was offered.

Second building on the campus was the Linnaean Hall, later known until it was razed in 1943 as the old gym.

1834 Was Turning Point

As one measure of the growth of the college, the campus now includes more than 20 buildings with a valuation of more than $2,000,000 and plans completed for the most ambitious building program in the history of the institution.

The year 1834 was a turning point in the early history of the college. In some respects it was the most eventful the college has ever known. It was in that year that the Legis-

The President's Message

NOWHERE else in the world is there quite the significance of the coming of school days as that existing in America. For the young, it serves as a vestibule to the entering of a larger world; to the adults, school days constitute an inspiring memory; to the American people — at no period of our history have there been more urgent reasons for the asking of vital questions concerning our education.

Our forefathers were deeply concerned about the planting of high ideals and noble traditions in the minds of youth. They realized that the well-being of the country is not a matter of acreage, mines or wealth, but primarily one of producing men and women of character, conscience, courage and self-dedication to things worthwhile.

To us, falls the task of keeping America loyal to and worthy of its high heritage. There are those who do not love America. There are those who seek to undermine its traditions. There are those who are glibly talking about "what's wrong with America." It is time for us on all levels of education to emphasize what is right with America. It is ours to face the things that are wrong and correct them . . . but ever to keep in mind the fact that only those ideals which have made America can serve to perpetuate cherished foundations laid by our fathers.

Our education needs to find anew great incentives — in mind and soul — for the preparing of youth who shall live creatively and unselfishly for the building of a better world. Those who are ceaselessly toiling in their subversive activities must be met by an equally devoted group who love our country and solemnly dedicate themselves to the ennobling and enriching of our land.

The entire world has its eyes on America. America is the last great hope of a groping world. In the midst of the blessings of school days, let us never forget — as parents, teachers and taught — the important hour in which we live.

lature passed the bill granting the college $18,000 and a series of other important developments were launched that were to change the school from a struggling young institution to a well organized college with assurances for its financial future.

Two professors were added to the faculty and a library was provided and a long series of land purchases was begun. In September of that year, the first steps in a building program were taken and the first class was graduated from the college.

Dr. Krauth First President

At the opening of the winter semester, Dr. Charles Philip Krauth was inaugurated as the first president of Pennsylvania college. Dr. Krauth had become a part time member of the faculty in the fall of 1833 and was made chairman of the faculty with Dr. Schmucker's relation to the college becoming that of one of the members of the Board of Trustees. Dr. Krauth's election as president was well received by friends of the college and he enjoyed great popularity in the 16 years he served as head of the institution, during a large part of which time he also served on the faculty of the seminary.

The college received its second president in 1850 when Dr. Henry L. Baugher, one of the outstanding faculty members, became its head. At about this time the college's financial structure became unsteady and there was some thought of closing the school or of merging it with Muhlenberg which had been founded in 1867. But the era of financial difficulties ended with renewed support from the state and the Lutherans and the institution resumed its progress.

The agitation to move the college from Gettysburg occurred in 1854 and seemed to be due in part to the inaccessibility of the town while York and Harrisburg with larger populations and better transportation facilities made attractive inducements to have the college taken there. Thaddeus Stevens led the move that proved successful to have the school retained here.

Formed Company Here

In the midst of financial troubles for the college came the Civil War. Although the town of Gettysburg had many southern influences and much of its trade was with the South, and although college students as often argued the cause of the South as that of the North in pre-war debates, both the town and the college were united in supporting the cause of the North when war came.

In the spring of 1861 a military company was formed by the college students. The company drilled regularly on the college campus and frequently in the town square. By the end of 1861 some of the students had entered the military service.

In May, 1863, plans for Lee's invasion of the North were announced by President Lincoln who called for volunteers. That news reached Gettysburg early in June. Most of the students were congregated around Buehler's book store after their noon meal, when the announcement was posted. Within a few hours 5 of the 114 students had signed as volunteers.

Helped Get Volunteers

Eventually a total of 61 enlisted in the company with a few from the seminary and the preparatory school. Along with a number of men from Gettysburg, the company was organized with 83 men and officers were elected. Going immediately to Harrisburg, it became Company A, 26th Regiment, Pennsylvania Militia. They enlisted for "the emergency" and became the first soldiers musterd into the Emergency army. History credits the Gettysburg company with setting in motion the "ball that gave the state 25,000 troops in a time when every man counted a score." Harvey W. McKnight of Company A became adjutant of the regiment.

On June 24, after a week of training at Camp Curtin, the company was returned to Gettysburg and on the morning of June 26 was ordered to move west along the Chambersburg road to meet Confederate troops of General Lee's command then operating from Chambersburg.

Delayed The Emeny

Getting reports of the approach of considerable numbers of the seasoned troops of the famous Army of Virginia, the men of Company A swung north and took part in their first skirmish near Bailey's hill on the old Carlisle road, about four miles north of town. A few of the men of Company A were taken prisoners by Southern cavalry while the others made a two-day forced march back to Harrisburg.

While the regiment and Company A did not achieve any great success in the brief Gettysburg maneuver, the unit became the first, nevertheless, to engage the enemy in what was to become the Battle of Gettysburg. Some historians say the action held up the enemy for a day.

A monument to the regiment in which Company A served was erected in front of the Meade school building at the intersection of Buford and Springs avenues in Gettysburg on September 1, 1892.

Campus Used In Battle

Classes were being held on the college campus when the first shots were heard the morning of July 1 but the classes were promptly dismissed and were not resumed until the next semester. On that afternoon Union Signal Corpsmen occupied Old Dorm but a short time later Confederates took over and the building soon served as a hospital. On July 2, General Lee used Old Dorm as a battle observation point but the building fell into Union hands again after the defeat on the South on July 3.

Gettysburg college students had returned to the campus in the fall and had a part in the parade on November 19 when Lincoln dedicated the National cemetery.

First Coeds In 1888

Upon Dr. Baugher's death in 1868, Dr. Milton Valentine, a graduate of the college in 1850, was elected president and served 16 years. His administration saw new courses added, the debt reduced and two buildings added. One was the campus observatory, long since removed, and the McCreary gymnasium which later became a chemistry laboratory and stood near the present site of the SCA building. The position of dean of the college also was created during Dr. Valentine's administration and Dr. Philip M. Bikle became the first to hold that office in 1889.

After Dr. Valentine resigned in 1884, Dr. Harvey W. McKnight was elected president and his tenure also was marked by the addition of college buildings, new land was bought and Glatfelter hall was erected. Brua chapel was built in 1900.

Gettysburg had first considered co-education in 1873 but the idea was rejected by the board. In 1888, the first coed was registered and girls continued as day students for the greater part of the time since that date.

Campus Became Camp In '17

Sports at Gettysburg college became firmly entrenched between 1890 and 1900 and a student body that once had listed croquet as its leading recreation began producing athletic teams that have made outstanding records through the years.

Dr. Samuel G. Hefelbower, a member of the class of 1891, became Dr. McKnight's successor in 1904 and served until 1910. In that year, Dr. William A. Granville, a Yale graduate, was made president of the school and installed engineering courses sufficient to allow the college to grant an engineering degree. The department was dropped in 1940. Aided by Dr. Charles H. Huber, then head of the preparatory department, Dr. Granville conducted a financial campaign that cleared the college of debt for the first time in 30 years.

Dr. Granville was the college's head through World War I. In 1916 the students petitioned for military instruction and

High School Graduates With Good Marks To Get Better "Break" This Fall

When the fall semester opens at Gettysburg college, this, like other institutions of higher learning throughout the United States, will have passed its peak of veteran enrollments, although, according to Registrar Charles R. Wolfe, there will be no sharp decline, but rather a gradual tapering-off.

The number of students who will be enrolled in Gettysburg college this fall will still be far above pre-war levels, however. Registrar Wolfe estimated the number would be between 1,200 and 1,250. A year ago the enrollment was 1,203, of which 178 were women.

There will be at least ten per cent fewer GI students in college for the 1948-1949 school year, according to the registrar, and of the freshman class entering college, approximately two-fifths will be veterans and three-fifths non-veterans.

The enrollment in the fall of 1940 was 593, of which 140 were women. In 1941 the figure had risen to 651, which included 168 women. In 1942 there were 702 students enrolled, of which 180 were women.

Army Moves In

Then came 1943, and the greater drain on the nation's youth because of the war. The civilian registration at the college dropped to 294, with 191 of these being women. Actually enrollment went up, however, since 550 army men enrolled for college training in the air corps.

In 1944 the regular registration had risen to 357. The 550 air force men were completing their training at the college, and 225 came here for the first part of the Army Specialized training program.

In the fall of 1945, the registration was approximately 500, of which 254 were women, but before the school year was over it had risen to 800. The GIs began coming in. They were enrolled in November, January and March.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

The enrollment, according to Registrar Wolfe, was 1,186 for the 1946-1947 school year. Of this number, 218 were women. The fall of 1947 saw a registration of 1,203, the highest in the history of the college. Women numbered 178.

Veterans Predominate

During the war years there were far more army and air force men in training at the college than civilian students. The veterans predominated after the war. Then the number leveled off a year ago, until it was about even between vets and non-vets. Those who started in February of this year, and others who entered in June, were predominately veterans, however.

The rising cost of tuition, room and board and completion of college courses by many veterans does not have the same effect here as in other colleges, Wolfe said. With Gettysburg college, it is rather a policy of which students to accept.

"The best of the civilian students who make application will be given the break which they deserve this fall," he said. "If the qualifications of the civilian applicant and the GI are approximately equal, we will of course give the preference to the veteran, but if a GI has mediocre qualifications and we have outstanding students from high schools on our list, the latter will get the choice."

Still Have Waiting List

The registrar said the pressure on enrollment is not as great this year, although the college has a waiting list of 2,000. This does not mean, however, that 2,000 are clamoring for entrance. It means, Wolfe said, that most of these have applied at at least three colleges and many of them have been accepted at other institutions. The women's waiting list has 200 names, to which similar conditions apply, he said.

A Wall Street Journal survey of 30 leading institutions, large and small, shows three chief factors will tend to keep this fall's crop of students below last year's levels: The rising cost of tuition, room and board; completion of courses by thousands of G.I.'s; action by colleges to hold down enrollment because of space and faculty problems.

The number of students enrolling is still, of course, far above pre-war and pre-GIli-bill figures, says the Journal. Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh, for instance, had about 2,400 students before the war. By last year the school was handling 3,600. This year 3,100 are expected.

While Carnegie is still receiving far more applications than it can accept, many schools, particularly state institutions, are now accepting the great bulk of their applicants.

Report From Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh reports its belief the peak of enrollment is "definitely over." In confirmation, it offers these figures: 14,708 students in 1940; 23,632 in 1946; 25,700 in 1947; 23,000 this year.

Other colleges and universities reporting an anticipated dip in their student bodies this fall: University of Oregon will have a drop of 10 er cent from last year's 5,000; University of Michigan is enrolling 20,-500 as against 1947's 20,900.

In many cases, the anticipated decline in number of students is not large; but it marks the end of a three-year-old postwar trend to bigger and still bigger classes.

Cutback At Columbia

Many schools are deliberately holding down or cutting back on student numbers. Giant Columbia university in New York city, for example, reports that applications for admission to its college and graduate schools have been heavier than ever before. When classes get underway on September 28, however, there will be a couple of thousand fewer students than last year's 31,-623.

The university has been stretching its facilities in the past few years to accommodate veterans. Now that the peak of veteran applications has passed, Columbia is scaling down to more normal enrollments to "take the abnormal teaching load off the faculty."

How the "veterans peak" has passed is illustrated graphically by these Columbia figures: Less than 15 per cent of this year's freshman class will be veterans, compared with 21 per cent in the class which entered last fall. In the class which graduated last spring 75 per cent were veterans.

Fewer At Harvard

Harvard is also keeping its student body within a limit it considers most suitable for efficient education. In all branches of the university there were 12,575 students a year ago, up from a pre-war level of 8,379. Approximately 11,000 will begin classes this fall. President James Conant says Harvard can do its best job of teaching with a total student body of about 8,000.

Northwestern university in Evanston, Ill., expects an enrollment of about 10,500 full-time students this fall. That's about the same number the institution has had for the past two years since the veteran invasion gathered momentum. This school, however, is accepting only about one out of five applications because of classroom and housing shortages.

As in many other schools, some Northwestern students are living in Quonset huts and temporary quarters.

The "Personal" Touch

Swarthmore college in Philadelphia is a small school which is deliberately reducing its rolls. Its peak number was reached last year, with 1,070; this year's total will be held to around 1,017. Authorities there are firm believers in smaller classes and seminars where students can receive a more "personal" education.

Besides the recession of the G. I.-student flood and calculated steps by schools to cut back unwieldy rolls, there's no doubt still-rising living costs—in this case tuition, room and board—are playing a part in keeping down 1948's college classes according to the Wall Street Journal. School authorities find it difficult to pin down the exact number of propsective students who are shelving higher education plans because of over-strained budgets, but they agree it's a pretty sizable figure.

High Cost of Higher Learning

Reports from around the country are almost unanimous in emphasizing that it's going to cost more to go to college this year than ever before.

Take the University of Michigan in the "big school" category. Tuition is $70 a term for residents of the state, $175 for out-of-state students. This compares with $70 and $150 last year, and with $60 and $100 in 1941. In 1941, Michigan charged an average of $401 for room and board; last year the same charge came to $491 and, in the coming terms, it will be $535.

Trinity college at Hartford, Conn., tells the same story for the smaller schools. There tuition is $500 a year, as against $400 in 1939. A room in the dormitories average $200 to $300 a year, about 10 per cent more than prewar.

The three major items of expense for Harvard men this coming year will add up to $1,236, an increase of about 20 per cent over the 1939 average of $1,021. Tuition will be $525 compared to 1939's $400; average room rental will be $270, up from the pre-war $261; and board has gone up from $360 to $441 since Pearl Harbor.

Students Seeing It Through

While it's costing Joe College more these days to win his coveted sheepskin, there's little indication students in any number are dropping out in mid-term because of the financial load.

Tufts, a suburban Boston college affiliated with the women's institution called Jackson college, finds that very few of its students leave college for financial reasons. Married vets need jobs badly, in many cases, but somehow they manage to hang on.

The same story comes from the University of Tennessee, which estimates campus living costs to be 10 per cent above last year. Officials there see no evidence of students dropping out to support families. Western Reserve authorities think more women than men may be forced out by soaring costs; Many families with an eye on high education bills, are giving sons preference over daughters in financing a college career.

Students Look For Work

The nation's colleges and universities report an intensified demand for jobs by hard-pressed students. "More students are looking for part-time jobs now," reports Western Reserve. "This is because a smaller portion of students are veterans who get their tuition and subsistance allowances from the government."

With expenses mounting, Swarthmore students this year have set up their own placement center. Undergraduates will be in charge, under the supervision of the college business manager. Youngstown college students are flocking to the steel plants in "exceptionally high numbers," according to that Ohio school. Working night and week-end shifts, they are pulling down $45 to $100 a week.

Southern Methodist university's job placement bureau received more job applications during the summer months than during all of last year.

John Holt, in charge of Harvard's student employment office, anticipates more applicants than jobs this coming year. "Still, no boy will have to leave college because we can't find him work," says Mr. Holt.

"He may not like the work offered, and he may not be able to keep his marks up if he does too much on the outside, but we'll get something for him."

Expansion Programs

Many schools are winding up or in the midst of extensive expansion programs begun under the stimulus of the postwar enrollment boom. The University of Michigan, for instance, is completing a $20 million building project. Part of it is a housing unit, providing living quarters for 276 families, which was finished last fall. An addition to the engineering building, a wing for the chemistry building, new business administration building are completed or almost so.

The University of Pittsburgh has just announced plans for an ambitious $16.2 million expansion program. Included are a medical school building, a building housing clinical wards and clinical laboratories, a nurses' home, a science building, library, gymnasium, student center and field home.

But many a college and university is holding off on expansion plans because of current high construction costs. Carnegie Tech, for one, set aside $4 million from its $28 million endowment fund for additions to the college of engineering and science and for a wing on the women's dormitory. Those plans are now out because of building costs.

The University of Southern California is putting off erection of a badly-needed classroom building until costs come down; instead it's putting up 20 temporary "bungalows" to substitute for classrooms. The University of Oregon has shelved a proposed science building, which would cost now about $2 million, far above the 1945 state legislature appropriation for that purpose.

Salesman Suggested College Colors

Here's how orange and blue became the official colors at Gettysburg college.

Back in 1889, or '90, style decreed that college students should wear "soft snug fitting caps with a visor and made in alternating stripes of college colors."

At that time the college had tricolors, but since no loom was then capable of turning out such a product, and the salesman hinted that the students voted unanimously for Orange and Blue caps were in stock, the new colors.

in June of that year Gettysburg became the first private college in the nation to apply for a unit in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the first unit was established here. During the war the unit became the Student Army Training Corps. The students were sworn in as soldiers in the army and the campus became a military camp with students marching to classes in uniforms. The civilian way of life returned late in 1918.

Named Changed In 1921

To conform with the general practice of calling the institution here Gettysburg college, the name officially was changed from Pennsylvania college in 1921. In the same year, summer courses were instituted and Weidensall hall was built with the Woman's League figuring largely in the project.

Following Dr. Granville's resignation in 1923, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, former Harrisburg Lutheran pastor, was elected to the office which he has now filled for a quarter century.

He immediately began a program that has given him in Gettysburg college history the name of "the building president." In 1925, Brua chapel and the Old Dorm were reconditioned. In 1927, the Breidenbaugh science hall was completed and in the same year the new Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium was made ready for use.

Trained Air Cadets

The new athletic field was completed in the same year and named Memorial field in honor of Gettysburg college men who served in World War I.

In 1929, Glatfelter hall was completely remodeled and the new library building was completed in the same year.

During World War II, the college served as a preliminary training school for the Army Air Forces with several hundred young men completing a phase of their training here, entered the Air Force and served their nation in combat on every front.

Since the war, the college has expanded its facilities to accommodate veterans that swelled the college enrollment to double its pre-war size and made necessary increases in the size of the faculty and general college facilities.

And now, well into its second century, in the words of its official bulletin, "Gettysburg college is grateful for the opportunities that it has had to contribute to the leadership of the country in the past, and is ready to take up with confidence the responsibilities of the days that lie ahead."

ROTC Students Get Army Commissions

The following students doffed their cadet uniforms and stepped forth as second lieutenants of the Army following last year's ROTC work. All were either commissioned on Commencement Day or at the end of the ROTC Camp. They include:

Edward J. Alexis, Punxsutawney; John E. Boyson, Mechanicsburg; Glenn W. Bushey, Wormleysburg; David T. Culp, New Kensington, Pa.; Frank R. Carew, Moorestown, N. J.; Edwin E. Carlson, Philadelphia; Robert J. Downie, Clairton, Pa.; Harry G. Emigh, Westminster; John D. Healy, Philadelphia; Andrew C. Hislop, Lynbrook, N. Y.; Richard R. Holmes, Hagerstown; Harold A. Langerman, Philadelphia; William F. Long, Gettysburg; Charles D. Meschter, New York; George A. Poorman, Gettysburg; John C. Schaeffer, Yonkers, N. Y.; Donald L. Selman, Chambersburg; Edward F. Stefl, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.; John L. Strube, Washington, D. C., and Joseph W. Tatasciore, Allentown.

12 ARE ADDED TO FACULTY OF LOCAL SCHOOL

Gettysburg college's faculty will be expanded to its greatest number in the history of the school for the current school year with the addition of 12 new members, several as replacements.

Miss Rebecca Lee, Beaver Falls, Pa., comes to Gettysburg as Head resident of Huber Hall and instructor in French. She received her A. B. at Geneva college and her M. A. at Syracuse university. After completing her master's, she served in the WAVES as an officer.

Three men will be added to the Economics and Political Science departments. George Bastyr, Pittsburgh, a graduate of Gettysburg, Pittsburgh graduate school will teach courses in economics. Holman W. Jenkins, Philadelphia, and Raymond W. Young, Baltimore, will be added to the Political Science division. Jenkins, who served in the Army, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, and Young graduated from Johns Hopkins university, who later attended the University of Baltimore, where he taught elementary economics.

2 English Instructors

Two additions have been announced to the English department. Nathaniel L. Koderly, Macon, Georgia, graduated from Mercer university and gained his master's degree there. He is working towards his Ph. D. at Johns Hopkins. He will teach freshman English.

Lewis H. Weeks, Jr., Bradford Mass., graduated from Colby College and later did some teaching. After serving in the Army, he received his master's degree at Brown university. He will also teach freshman English.

A new man will be added to the Latin and Greek departments in the person of Edward Freed, Beavertown, Pa. Freed graduated from Gettysburg college, and the Lutheran Theological Seminary here. He has been working towards his Ph. D. at Harvard university recently. He will teach both Latin and Greek.

Grace C. Kenney is the new women's athletic director, and replaces Marcia Maguire. A resident of Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Kenney graduated from New York university, and gained her master's degree from Columbia university. She is a member of the American Association of Physical Education, Health and Recreation. During the summer months for the past eight years she has been director of athletics and senior group head, at Camp Deerhead, Hancock, N. Y. Since 1944 she has been the director of physical education and health at the Radford School for Girls, El Paso, Texas.

The college has signed Alan L. Mitchell, Melrose, Mass., as the assistant professor of Biology to replace Dr. Myron L. Simpson. After graduating from Allegheny college, he acquired his master's degree at the University of Michigan. He is now doing graduate work at the University of Chicago.

William Stuart, Jamestown, N. Y., will be a new addition to the Philosophy department. After attending Hobart college, he received his A. B. at Harvard and later gained his master's degree at Harvard. He has been assisting there while doing graduate work.

Allen C. Percival, a new instructor in French, received his A. B. degree, cum laude, at Harvard and his A. M. in Romance Languages at Harvard. In the past year he has been in the Army as an officer, been doing graduate work at the University of Paris. After serving four years in the Army as an officer, he served as a part time instructor at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, 1946-47.

ROTC MEN ARE EXCUSED FROM DRAFT FOR YEAR

All college students or those expecting to enter college must register for the draft if they come under the provisions of the 1948 Selective Service Act. All students who enter or are in college this fall will be excused from being drafted until the end of the college year (1948-1949) unless their status changes.

A limited number, or quota, of ROTC students who take Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) studies in College will be placed on a "deferred" status so far as the draft is concerned and as briefly outlined in part hereafter.

(1) The number of students who can be so deferred is limited.

(2) Students selected for the deferred group, by the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, will have their local Boards notified to this effect. Each student will be deferred individually and must then notify his local Board.

(3) So long as these selected students remain in college in good standing and take ROTC they remain on the "deferred" status. When they cease to be members of the ROTC for any reason or leave college, they lose the "deferred" status and are so reported to their local Draft Board.

(4) When they withdraw from college or are dropped or do not continue in the ROTC their Board is notified that their status is no longer "deferred."

(5) Students who are accepted for the deferred status sign an agreement to continue in the ROTC for the four year course if so selected, and upon being commissioned to accept the commission as a Second Lieutenant and to serve for two years in the Armed Forces if so called upon.

(6) Students must demonstrate proper and sufficient aptitude and leadership characteristics or indicate potential leadership so as to qualify them upon graduation to be commissioned junior officers.

Requirements For ROTC Enrollment

Making application or registering for ROTC does not enroll a student in the ROTC. He must be selected to become a member of the quota to be deferred. The following are briefly the requirements: (Freshmen)

a. Physically qualified. (Officers standard)
b. Citizen or son of a citizen.
c. Qualified as required by Army or Air Force regulations.
d. Pass tests as given.
e. Accepted by the Professor of Military Science and Tactics.
f. Remaining in good standing in ROTC and other Scholastic subjects and demonstrate proper and sufficient aptitude and leadership characteristics to ultimately qualify for a commission in the Army or Air Force.
g. Agree to continue in the ROTC while in college and for the four year course if selected to do so. He further agrees to attend an ROTC Camp.

Advance course students who continue in good standing in their military courses and other Academic work will automatically be deferred until after completion of the ROTC course. These students are on their third of fourth year of ROTC instruction.

ROTC deferment is not a means of evading the Selective Service Law but is rather a postponement of service, a training in leadership for selected students who agree to take their training if and when commissioned.

BULLETS HAD 17 COACHES

There have been 17 football coaches at Gettysburg college since the inception of the sport in 1890.

Since the college organized its first football eleven the teams have won 234 games while losing 201 with 31 ties. The Bullets amassed 5,030 points to 4,595 for their opponents.

The list of coaches follows:

No coach 1890-01; Dr. H. D. Jump, 1892-96; David Dale, captain and coach, 1897; Mr. Johnson, 1898-99; "By" Dickson, 1900; L. Smith, 1901-02; Dr. Oglesby, 1903; Fred Vail, 1904-06; G. Johnson, 1907; Rolland E. Brumbaugh, 1908; Fred Vail, 1909-11; Norman Phillipy, 1912; Pete Mauthe, 1913; "Shorty" O'Brien, 1914-15; Robert N. Berryman, 1916-17; D. R. Leathers, 1918; Bill Wood, 1919-26; Henry T. Bream, 1927-.

Yale Coach Herman Hickman is football's heaviest head coach—307 pounds.

In the two seasons that the All-America Football Conference has been in operation, the Chicago Rockets have scored exactly the same number of points—263—in their 14 annual tilts.

ROTC Unit To Be Largest In History Of College; Aims To Develop Leaders

Students of Gettysburg college who desire, and are selected for ROTC training, join a group with a most historic background on the local campus which dates back to 1861.

According to the history of Gettysburg college of 1932: "In the Spring of 1861, a military company was formed by the students. . . . It drilled regularly in the field behind the college, occasionally in the square in town, where it was greatly complimented for its skill in military evolutions."

In 1862 nearly half the freshman class joined the army, and before another class was graduated in August, 1863, war came to Gettysburg, and a company of 83 men was formed here. Sixty-one were college students. They became Company A, 26th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, and were the first to engage the Confederates near the town.

In 1880, 1889 and in 1908 military companies were organized. During the "Citizen Soldier" and "Preparedness" period just prior to World War I it appears that Adolph C. Weidenbach organized a volunteer company at the then Pennsylvania college. He may therefore be considered as the father of the ROTC.

Has Modern Equipment

The Cadet Corps at the present time is equipped with the most modern arms and instruments for study. Texts, films and other training aids are furnished by the government. The entire Corps is supplied with officers' uniforms and those of the advanced course are tailor-made to individual measure. Uniforms are complete, even to shoes, overcoats, and gloves.

The mission of the unit is to prepare future junior leaders for the Army and the Air Forces. Therefore potential leadership is looked for in those taking the ROTC course.

Among the several major subjects studied by the students as part of the ROTC program are the following:

Military law, psychology and personnel management, combat intelligence, recoil-less weapons, meteorology, statistical control, map reading, troop movements. A practical course in methods of teaching is included for all advanced course students.

Unit Adds to Staff

The ROTC department personnel for the college year is as follows:

Colonel Alfred E. McKenney, himself a former ROTC student, heads the department. He is a regular army official and completed 30 years of service this past summer. Colonel McKenney is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire, where he was the Senior Cadet Officer and also recfpient of the Military Honor medal. In college he majored in Education. Colonel McKenney has taught in three colleges. He has served through the ranks from private to colonel.

Col. McKenney is also a graduate of the Infantry school and the Command and General Staff school of the Armed Forces Staff college. He entered the regular army in 1920 after having ser d during the first World War. The colonel saw foreign service in Puerto Rico and in the Philippines prior to World War II.

At the beginning of the latter conflict, he wrote training literature, Army texts and prepared aids to training, including motion pictures and other visual aids. He later headed a section of the Infantry school. Overseas he was G-3 of the Africa-Middle East theater. He was detailed in the Guard Staff corps from 1944 to 1946.

Has Many Awards

The colonel is married and has three children, one of whom is an ensign in the Coast Guard. Col. McKenney's home state is New Hampshire. His awards and decorations include the Victory medal, American Defense medal, American Theater ribbon, European-Middle East Theater ribbon, World War II Victory ter ribbon, World War II Lasion officer of the Great Star of Ethiopia awarded him by Emperor Hailie Selassie.

Lt. Col. Thomas E. Peddy

Lt. Col. Thomas E. Peddy, USAF, was with the unit part of last year. He is from Arcadia, Louisiana. Prior to his enlistment in the Army as an aviation cadet, he attended the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston, La., where he majored in business administration.

After being commissioned and being trained at Randolph and Kelly Fields as a bomber pilot he was assigned to the Submarine Command, whose job it was to locate and destroy subs in the area between Newfoundland and Trinidad. While on this duty he logged over 500 combat hours.

In October, 1943, he was shipped to the Central Pacific area where he served as a bombardment squadron commander and later as Group Operations officer and Deputy Group commander. Lt. Col. Peddy successfully completed 46 combat missions and moved along with the island campaigns from the Fiji islands through the Gilbert, Marshall, and Marianas groups to Okinawa in the Ryukyu islands. Some of the missions in which he participated were to such famous islands as Tarawa, Kwajelein, Wake, Iwo Jima, Truk, and Kyushu. For this service, Col. Peddy was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, and Air medal with eight clusters and the Bronze Star medal. Colonel and Mrs. Peddy reside on Seminary avenue.

Capt. Leonard D. Rogers

Captain Leonard D. Rogers who comes to the ROTC unit from Italy, was born and reared in Spartanburg, S. C. He attended public school there and entered Clemson A and M college in the fall of 1939. He majored in industrial engineering and graduated in May, 1943, with honors. He was honor military graduate which culminated in being comissioned in the Regular Army. While in college he was a member of Scabbard and Blade and various honor societies and fraternities.

Captain Rogers entered the military service on August 4, 1943, at Fort Jackson, and was subsequently assigned to the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga. Here he became an instructor in field engineering. Subjects he taught included mines and "booby traps," terrain application, river crossings, stream crossing expedients, camouflage, road construction and maintenance.

Headed Special Section

During a part of that time, field engineering subjects came under the jurisdiction of the General Section of the Infantry school, of which Col. McKenney, the present PMS and T at Gettysburg college, was then chief.

Following a one year tour at the Infantry school, Capt. Rogers proceeded to an overseas assignment in Italy in 1944. He served with a mine and demolition team after his arrival in Italy. He later became G-2 of the Cechignola Re-deployment Training area and the 209th AAA group in Rome, Italy. Subsequently he was assigned to the Supreme Allied Commander's Secretariat of Allied Force Headquarters in Caserta, Italy. He returned to the United States in July, 1947.

Captain Rogers is married and has one child. He resides at 449 West Middle street. His declarations and awards include Commendation Ribbon for service in Supreme Allied Commander's Secretariat, American Campaign medal, European-African-Middle East Campaign medal, WWII Victory medal and Occupation medal.

While he claims his hobbies are woodworking and photography, it will be found that his real hobby is being an army officer.

Captain Douglas A. Crone

Another newcomer to the military department is Captain Douglas A. Crone. Captain Crone, an Air Force officer, is a native of Pennsylvania, having been born and lived in York until his entry into the armed forces. He is a graduate of Ursinus college, class of 1942, where he majored in political science. Immediately upon graduation, he entered the army and was stationed at Fort Meade, Md. Later, he attended the officers' candidate school at Grinnell, Iowa, and in February of 1943 received his commission as a second lieutenant, branch unassigned.

He spent the next 10 months as an instructor in the ROTC-ASTP program at Ripon college in Wisconsin. In November of 1943, Captain Crone was transferred to the Air Force and after several months schooling at Warner Robins, Ga., he was sent to the European Theater of Operations. Here he was assigned to a Mobile Reclamation and Repair Squadron of the 9th Air Force. He was the intelligence officer and adjutant of this unit throghout the campaign in Europe.

While assigned to the Air Force, Captain Crone's squadron was attached to the First United States Army, being the maintenance team for the Artillery Air Operations Division. For its work during the Battle of the Bulge, this unit was awarded the Meritorious Service Unit citation.

Captain Crone was assigned later to several depot groups in the occupational forces as a Statistical Control Officer. For 11 months he was the executive officer of the 26th Statistical Control Unit at Erding, Germany. He returned to state-wide duty after three years overseas, with the 47th Bombardment Wing, a wing of the Tactical Air command. Here he was the Wing Statistical Control Officer. He came to Gettysburg from this assignment. Captain Crone was commissioned in the Regular Air Force in June of 1947.

Sports and music are the captain's principal hobbies. He reorganized his college band in his sophomore year in college and was student director through his remaining years in school. In addition he was concert master of the college symphony. He was a member of the county-wide famous York Post 127 American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

At Erding, Germany, he coached the depot football team and for several years has been officiating at football, baseball and basketball contests.

Captain Crone is married and has one daughter. He lives on the York road.

He holds the American Theater ribbon, the European, African, Middle Eastern ribbon with one silver star, the World War II Victory ribbon and the World War II Occupation ribbon.

served in the 4th Anti-Tank Battalion, the first battalion of its kind. This unit was commanded by Major General Leven C. Allen (then Lt. Col.) and assisted by Lieutenant General A. C. Wedemeyer, Battalion Adjutant (then Captain).

In 1940 he attended a radio operators' school and performed duty on detached service with the Signal Corps Laboratory at Fort Monmouth, N. J., testing frequency modulation radios for the Infantry Board. Promoted to sergeant in 1941 he served as Battalion Operations sergeant until promoted to staff sergeant and appointed communications chief. He became a technical sergeant in 1942. He went to Fort Bragg, N. C., to help form the 1st Tank Destroyer group. He became communication chief for the I Tank Destroyer Group and was promoted to first sergeant.

Sergeant Lowe returned to Fort Benning and the training regiment of the Infantry school. On August 1, 1947, he was promoted to master sergeant and made battalion sergeant major of the First Battalion of this regiment.

He holds the Good Conduct medal, the American Defense, the American Theater and the Victory medal. He organized and was president of the Post Non-Commissioned Officers' club at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1947 and 1948. His hobbies are hunting and fishing. He is married and has three children who reside with him in Gettysburg.

M-Sgt. John F. Reus, Jr.

Master Sergeant John F. Reus, Jr. is a regular army non-commissioned officer. He was born in Baltimore and attended the Parochial schools. He attended the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute and graduated in 1938.

Sergeant Reus entered the regular Field Artillery in 1938. He was promoted to corporal and then to sergeant in 1942. He was again promoted to staff sergeant June, 1942. He was assigned to the Officers' Candidate school and was commissioned a second Lieutenant, Field Artillery, in February, 1943. He saw service in India and flew the "Hump" into China. He was assigned as an instructor at the Field Artillery School in Yunnan, China.

Later Sergeant Reus was attached as a Liaison Officer to the 54th Chinese Army Artillery battalion; he accompanied the unit on foot down the Burma road to the western (Salween) Front. He remained with this unit throughout the Salween campaign, and then returned to China. The war ended and his unit moved to occupy Canton in September, 1945.

He also saw duty in Shanghai and was soon repatriating Japanese from North Kiangsu and Manchuria, via Lien Yun and Hulutao to their homeland. He returned to the USA in June, 1946, but sailed from San Francisco in February, 1947, for Fecom (Korea). Here he served with the 80th Field Artillery Battalion and the Korea Base Command Engineers. He returned to USA in June of this year and was separated as a captain of Field Artillery. He re-enlisted as a master sergeant and was assigned to Gettysburg college.

Sergeant Reus is a major of Field Artillery in ORC. He was awarded the Bronze Star medal; Breast Order of Yun Hwei (Chinese Army); and three campaign stars. He is married and his wife resides with him in Gettysburg.

M-Sgt. James A. Parks

Sergeant Parks was born and raised in Philadelphia, Pa. He worked as a mechanical draftsman for the General Electric Switchgear plant in Philadelphia before entering the service. In February, 1942, he was sent to the Armored Force in Fort Knox, Ky., for basic training and upon completion he remained there as cadre of the 13th Armored Force Replacement training center. He attended Engineer Officers Candidate School at Fort Belvoir, Va., and in November, 1942, was commissioned a second lieutenant.

Sergeant Parks was assigned to the 49th Engineer Combat Battalion which first took part in the African campaign and then went to England. His unit was part of the Normandy assault force which came in on Utah beach at H+1 hour. He participated in five campaigns. After hostilities were concluded he was returned to the states and was discharged as a captain in April, 1946. He re-entered the Army as a first lieutenant in September, 1946, and was assigned to the 94th Engineer Construction Bn. in Fort Lewis, Wash. In December, 1946, he sailed for Japan and served with the 1180th Engineer Construction Group, working on air fields on the main island of Japan.

Returning to the United States in June, 1948, he was relieved from active duty but enlisted as a master sergeant and was assigned to the 2322nd ASU Recruiting Duty at York, Pa. Sergeant Parks comes to Gettysburg from this assignment in York. He holds the American theater ribbon, the European theater ribbon with a bronze arrowhead and five campaign stars, World War II Victory ribbon and the Japanese Occupation ribbon.

T-Sgt. Edward J. Hallas, Jr.

Tech. Sgt. Edward J. Hallas, Jr., is from Philadelphia. After graduation from high school he enlisted in the Army, and after completing basic training at Fort Slocum, N. Y., was sent to Hickam Field, Hawaii. Sergeant Hallas was at Hickam Field, when the Japanese attacked Hawaii. In July, 1943, the 11th Bombardment Group, of which Sergeant Hallas was a member, was sent to the Southwest Pacific. After serving in the Southwest Pacific for 10 months he was sent back to the mainland for reassignment. After being reassigned to Ephrata AFB, Washington in the 395th Bomb Group, the 589th Sq of the group was transferred to Ardmore, Okla., to help train crews for heavy bombers.

In the early part of 1945, Sergeant Hallas was transferred to 211th AFBU Sioux Falls, S. D., as part of a processing team, processing AF personnel returned from overseas. On the 9th of September, 1945, the Sergeant was transferred to Separation Center, Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, for discharge, and was honorably discharged September 29, 1945. As a civilian, Sergeant Hallas worked for Globe Hoist company, in Philadelphia, makers of hydraulic hoists.

In May, 1947, he re-enlisted in the Army and was again sent to Fort Slocum, N. Y., for reassignment. From there he was transferred to Headquarters Flight Service, Military Air Transport Service, Washington, D. C. Sergeant Hallas has been awarded the following ribbons: American Defense APTO ribbon with two stars, American theatre ribbon, Good Conduct ribbon, and Victory ribbon, and Presidential Unit citation. His family, wife and daughter, are now residing at 303 Hanover street, Gettysburg.

S-Sgt. Albert Humphries

Staff Sergeant Albert Humphries is from Philadelphia, Pa. After high school and three years of evening school (Mech. Dr.) he enlisted in the Army. He attended airplane mechanics school and then joined the 16th Air Depot Group, 90th Supply Squadron and with it went overseas in August of 1943. His unit moved to France from England on D + 30 and followed General Patton's Third Army through St. Lo, Paris and Rheims. It crossed into Germany near Aachen and set up a fighter strip in Munchen Gladback near Dussledorf.

In May, 1945, he went to Hanau Main, Germany, with the 45th Air Depot Group, to disarm the Germans. He re-enlisted in the US Army for one year and became warehouse superintendent of air force supply. He cared for Medical, Signal and Ordnance supply warehouses. He became sergeant major of Wolfgang Air Ordnance Depot.

He flew back to the states in December, 1947, for the first time in 52 months. Upon arrival he joined the Eleventh AF, and with the inactivation of that organization, went to the First Air Force. Sergeant Humphries holds the Victory, Occupation, Good Conduct and ETO ribbons with four battle stars. His family, wife and daughter, live in Harrisburg.

The ROTC In Peace And War

By MAJ. GEN. E. S. BRES

In planning your future, the advantages of becoming a member of the Reserve Officers Training Corps are of importance to you. The training you will receive will benefit you throughout your entire career. In addition, our country needs your support to maintain our future national security.

I earnestly ask that you give careful consideration to the importance, both to you and to our country, of enrolling in the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps is not a component of the Army of the United States. Students enrolled in ROTC are not members of the military establishment. Membership in the ROTC does not in itself entail any obligation for active military service.

Started In 1819

The genesis of ROTC occurred in 1819. In that year Alden Partridge, a former superintendent of the United States Military Academy, founded the American Literary, Scientific, and Military Academy at Northfield, Vt. Aside from West Point, this was the first educational institution at which military studies were prescribed as part of the curriculum.

In the period between 1819 and the Civil War, a number of essentially military schools and colleges were founded. Some of these were Lafayette College, Virginia Military Institute, The Citadel, Kemper, Oak Ridge, and Marion Institute. All of these institutions are now represented in the ROTC system. However, up to the time of the Civil War, military studies were practically unknown in schools not of the essentially military type.

In 1862 Representative Justin Morrill introduced to the Congress an act which provided that grants of land be authorized for those educational institutions at which "the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and mechanic arts." This act was approved by the Congress and is known as the "Morrill Act," after its author. The passage of this act was the real beginning of ROTC, although in somewhat different form.

Others Adopt Program

Shortly after the Civil War, several of the states and territories began to take advantage of the Morrill Act by establishing state universities and agricultural colleges. At each, Military Science and Tactics formed a part of the prescribed curriculum. At first the federal government provided no particular assistance in regard to military instructors or equipment. Between 1870 and 1880 several acts were passed which authorized the detail of personnel and the loan of equipment to institutions of this type. In 1888 similar authorization was granted for institutions not of the land-grant family and including public high schools.

These forerunners of the present ROTC system proved to be of considerable value in the Spanish-American War. At the University of Nebraska, where in 1892 First Lt. John J. Pershing had been Professor of Military Science and Tactics, the entire Corps of Cadets organized itself into the First Nebraska Volunteer Infantry.

The National Defense Act of 1916 provided for a new Officers Reserve Corps and the organization of the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Many new institutions were granted units in 1917 and 1918. In the fall of 1918, ROTC was suspended in favor of the Students Army Training Corps and was not reactivated until the fall of 1919. In June, 1920, 190 graduates, the first group of officers produced from ROTC received their commissions.

120,000 Officers

By 1941, ROTC had produced approximately 120,000 reserve officers. The classes of 1942, 1943, and 1944 added approximately 32,000 more. In addition between the years 1920 and 1942 approximately 1,600,000 enrollees in all levels of ROTC received some military training.

During World War II approximately 100,000 graduates of ROTC served in ranks from second lieutenant to brigadier general. They served on all staff and command levels and contributed greatly to the final victory.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps has two missions. The first is to produce junior officers who have the qualities and attributes essential to their progressive and continued development as officers of the Army of the United States. The second is to lay the foundations of intelligent citizenship within the student and to give him such basic military training as will be of benefit to himself and to the military service if he becomes a member thereof.

It is imperative that this country shall never revert to the stages of unpreparedness that existed prior to World Wars I and II. The fact that this nation must be prepared to defend itself is not new. It was recognized at the very beginning of the formation of the then new United States of America.

It is apparent that the framers of our constitution were well aware of the problems that would arise to confront the new Nation they were forming. They stated that the reason for the forming of the constitution was "in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, and secure the blessings of liberty for ourselves and our posterity." Actually, eighteen powers were granted to the Congress, and of this number, nine pertained to national defense. There is no doubt as to the intent or the authority invested in the Congress at that time.

Important To Army

The Reserve Officers Training Corps, although not a component of the Army, is an integral and important part of the national defense framework of this country.

Because of its concept, form of government, and way of life, this country never has had a large standing Army in time of peace. It has always, in times of emergency, depended upon a citizen army.

The formation of a vast citizen army is a tremendous task. In 1917 and 1940, we were exceedingly fortunate in having the time to organize and train such an army before being forced to engage in large-scale combat, although in the dark days of 1942 there was good cause to fear that we had gambled with security once too often. If there is a third world war, we may be certain that we will be the first target of attack. Our great potential strength will be a liability rather than an asset if then we are unable to bring greater strength to bear at the point of attack. This means that the citizen army must be ready before it is needed.

One of the chief problems in the formation of a citizen army is the procurement of qualified officers in bulk. There will be no time to select and train them when war clouds are on the horizon. Only through the ROTC program can they be secured in adequate numbers before they are needed. Some indication of the importance that ROTC graduates played in World War II may be obtained from the Biennial Report of General George C. Marshall of 1945, when speaking of ROTC graduates, he stated:

"The contribution of this component was therefore largely one of individuals but of wide extent and greater importance * * * its most important contribution was the immediate availability of its product. Just what we would have done in the first phases of mobilization and training without these men—I do not know. I do know that our plans would have had to be greatly curtailed and the cessation of hostilities on the European front would have been delayed accordingly. We must enlarge and strengthen the system."

The ROTC is vital to our national security. The facts are clear—without ROTC this country cannot produce sufficient officer personnel to expand the Army of the United States. The future security of this nation depends upon the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

College Band Is Gaining Prominence

The unsung half of the Music Department of Gettysburg College, the College Band, is both a marching and concert organization. Two years ago the band was reorganized, and now it is the largest one in the history of the college. The band is active at all home football games and last year played for the game at Muhlenberg. In April the Concert Band played at the Eichelberger high school in Hanover and a few weeks later thrilled music lovers with a concert presented in the college gymnasium. This program was recorded by the campus radio station.

Under the able direction of Paul A. Harner, of Hanover, the band has grown from a mere idea to an integral part of the music life of Gettysburg campus.

This year, for the first time, a program of awards will be initiated for band members which will consist of a letter at the end of two active years and a key upon graduation.

On arriving at Gettysburg campus all students who have had musical experience are urged to report for tryouts which will be scheduled by Mr. Harner soon after registration is completed. Rehearsals will be held three days a week at a convenient time.

Chicago is the only team in the All-America pro football conference which carded no exhibition games for 1948.

WELCOME STUDENTS TO COLLEGE

SPEND $25,000 FOR COLLEGE IMPROVEMENTS

Approximately $25,000 has been spent by Gettysburg college in general improvements, such as landscaping, painting, furnishings and in setting up a sub-post office.

The athletic fields, which have been improved over a two-year span, are some of the finest of any small college in the country. The track, which was removed from around the baseball field to Memorial field a year ago, has been completed this summer and is now in shape for the Middle Atlantic championships which will be held here next May.

Under the capable direction of trainer Romeo Capozzi, broad jump, high jump, pole vault pits and lanes, and boards for the weight events have been built at logical locations in Memorial field.

Improve New Field

The tennis courts which formerly bordered West Lincoln avenue were moved to behind West Broadway a year ago. During the summer they were improved and all plant growths removed. Grass was planted around the courts which greatly improve their appearance.

Most of the remaining ground between the tennis courts and Barlow avenue has been leveled and grass has been planted. This location will serve as a freshman baseball field and softball fields.

One of the biggest improvements as far as students are concerned is the conversion of a dormitory room to a mail room. Three hundred individual letter boxes and windows have been placed in the old book store room—a room on the ground floor in the southwest corner of Old Dorm.

Furnish Rooms

The Woman's League has furnished newly all the rooms in Huber Hall. They contain Hollywood beds, maple chests, desks and chairs.

A great deal of painting has been done during the summer months. The interior and all the rooms of Aughinbaugh hall, Springs avenue, were painted. The interior of the four barracks were also painted. The football bleachers were varnished and the exterior of Stevens hall was painted.

The ladies' room in Glatfelter hall received a new coat of paint and new furniture. In Old Dorm, the first floor toilet was painted. Double window shades have been installed for all the class rooms in Glatfelter hall.

Other Improvements

New locks have been placed in all the doors of rooms at Huber hall. The parking lot north of the Eddie Plank gymnasium was resurfaced. A gravel walk is being placed around the infirmary. All roofs and spouting have been repaired.

Showguards have been placed on the roof of Glatfelter hall. The Gettysburg college sign on North Washington street is being resurfaced and repainted.

The heating plant, located opposite the Reading railroad freight station, has had many repairs at a large cost.

FEMALE PAINS

Are you troubled by distress of female functional monthly disturbances? Does this make you suffer from pain, feel so nervous, weak, high-strung—at such times? Then do try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms! In a recent medical test this proved remarkably helpful to women troubled this way. Any drugstore.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Bullets Adopt New Uniforms

Gettysburg college's football team will definitely have a new look this year — both in uniforms and formation.

To go with the new "T" formation, the gridders will wear silver rayon pants with a narrow orange and blue stripe down each side. The jerseys will be navy blue with orange numerals on front and back and three orange stripes on the sleeves. The numerals will be 12 inches high in front and 14 inches high in back.

Silver headgears will complete the Gettysburg college gridder, 1948.

COLLEGE HEARD MANY OF NOTE IN PAST YEAR

Gettysburg college students have always been fortunate in hearing some of the day's outstanding personalities from the lectern but the year 1947-48 exceeded all others when such people as Ferenc Nagy, ex-premier of Hungary; Dr. Roy K. Marshall, outstanding atomic authority; the Hon. Walter Judd, congressman from Minnesota; Dr. Edward L. Bortz, president of the American Medical association; Amiya Chakravarty; Lt. Gen. Keller Rockey, commanding general of the First Marine Division, and many others appeared here.

Nagy, who was ousted as premier of Hungary, elucidated on the menace of the Red influence in Europe, hammering the point home with the statement that "Southern Europe is more completely conquered now by Communistic influence than if it had been conquered militarily during the war."

Nuclear Discussion

Speaking on nuclear fission, Dr. Marshall, director of the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute, won a host of friends with his down to earth description of nuclear physics. Dr. Marshall's name can be found on the rosters of scientific societies through the United States and the British Empire.

Dr. Walter H. Judd was the feature speaker for the annual Religion-In-Life conference which was held in the middle of February. At the same conference, Dr. Ard Hoven, well-known for his presentation of the national radio program, "The Christians' Hour," and Dr. Robert D. Hershey, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Communion in Philadelphia, shared the program with Dr. Judd.

"New Frontiers in Medicine" was the topic of the address delivered by Dr. Bortz who is well known for his research in the field of medical enemy number one—cancer.

Amiya Chakravarty, a former associate of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, delivered a lecture on "The Peace Testimony." He represented India in various historic conferences during the past 14 years.

Gen. Rockey stated: "You can't have any government that is partly Communist—I am convinced of it," in an address at Brua Chapel in April. Gen. Rockey is well known for his part in the defense of Iwo Jima. He was known as the "Rock of Iwo Jima."

Dr. Hans Kohn, an authority on nationalism and professor of history at Smith college spoke on the topic, "The End of World Wars," or "U.S.A. in 1948: An Optimistic Outlook."

The Baccalaureate speaker was the Rev. Edward T. Horn III, Lutheran pastor from Germantown, Pa., and the commencement speaker was the Hon. H. Hume Wrong, ambassador to the United States from Canada, and alternate Canadian representative to the United States.

NEW NATIONAL SORORITY WILL BE INSTALLED

With the installation of the national sorority Alpha Xi Delta scheduled for the first semester, Gettysburg college will have four national sororities on the campus. The other three are the Chi Omega, Delta Gamma and Phi Mu.

Sorority rushing will start Sunday, September 19, and will continue until Thursday, September 22, on which day the silence day begins. The rushees will file preferences Friday while Saturday the silence day ends at 9:00 a.m., and bids are received by the rushees.

Events scheduled for rush week are the following: Sunday, September 19: 2:00-2:45, Chi Omega tea; 2:45-3:30, Delta Gamma tea; 3:30-4:15, Phi Mu tea, and 4:15-5:00 Alpha Xi Delta tea.

The Delta Gamma's will have a party on Monday while the Phi Mu's are scheduled to entertain the rushees Tuesday. Alpha Xi Delta will have its party Wednesday and Thursday the Chi Omega's will end the rush week with its party.

Panhellenic Creed

The Panhellenic creed follows: "We, the fraternity undergraduate members, stand for good scholarship, for guarding of good health, for wholehearted cooperation with our college's ideals for student life, for the maintenance of fine social standards, and for the serving, to the best of our ability, of our college community. Good college citizenship as a preparation for good citizenship in the larger world of alumnae days is the ideal that shall guide our chapter activities."

For the benefit of newcomers to the campus herewith is presented a definition of terms: bid, an invitation to a grill from a sorority to become a pledge of that sorority; pledge, the acceptance of a bid by a non-sorority girl (also term used to designate a girl who has accepted a bid and has not been initiated); date, informal entertaining such as coke or movie dates during rush week for the purpose of acquainting non-sorority women with sorority members; rush, the process of acquainting new girls with the purposes, activities and members of sororities (Rush week is set aside for this purpose), and silence day, final day of "rush week" on which day sorority women are forbidden to talk sority to rushees.

700 ROTC GRADS CALLED TO DUTY

In accordance with a provision of the Selective Service Act of 1948, the Department of the Army has directed that approximately 700 recent graduates of the Reserve Officer Training Corps be ordered to active duty for a period not to exceed 21 months.

The Executive for Reserve and ROTC Affairs explained that those ROTC graduates affected hold Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and have had less than 90 days of continuous active service. Most of these Reserve Officers will be ordered to report for duty with the Army on or about October 15.

Reserve Officers falling within this category will be alerted by letters of instruction in the near future. If the officer is a student of medicine or dentistry he will be allowed to complete his schooling before being called to duty.

Any junior Reserve officer subject to service under this new directive may volunteer for active duty without waiting for the October 15 date, if he so desires.

ROTC MEN WILL WEAR SUPERIOR UNIT INSIGNIA

Following the inspection given the ROTC unit of Gettysburg College last May, the college was notified that its unit had been rated "Superior". This is a new high in rating, having only been established this year.

The insignia of this rating consists of a star surrounded by a wreath, and is worn by all students of a unit rated as "Superior."

In a letter to Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson congratulating him on the Unit, General L. T. Gerow, Commanding General of the Second Army said in part:

Sends Congratulations

"Based on the results of the recently conducted annual ROTC inspection Gettysburg college has been awarded the rating of 'superior.' As you know, this is the first time this rating has been authorized, and is limited to those institutions which have attained an exceptionally high standard of training and discipline.

"I know that a good share of the honor must be yours for I feel that without your wholehearted support of the ROTC nothing so outstanding could have been achieved. My congratulations to you, to Colonel McKenney and all members of the ROTC."

Colonel Alfred E. McKenney, professor of Military Science and Tactics at the college, gave credit for the award not only to his assistants and to the cadet leaders who were members of the advanced courses, but to every member of the unit.

DEBATERS OF COLLEGE PLAN WESTERN TOUR

Since man has learned to communicate civilization and society have advanced. The art of oratory was considered one of the marks of eminent citizenship in ancient Greek and Roman times. In the present day it will be noted that those in positions of leadership have the art of oratory and know how to think quickly, intelligently and logically on their feet.

At Gettysburg College debating is the exemplification of oratory. It is practiced to the highest degree and its high achievement is rewarded with competition between other schools and debaters. The honorary forensic and debate fraternity, Tau Kappa Alpha, furnishes the reward for excelling in speech. Debating is one of the school's more prominent activities and has been in existence for so long that it is almost a tradition at Gettysburg.

Tryouts In Fall

The squad is sponsored by the English department and the managing and arranging of the team and debates is done by the varsity debate manager and two assistant managers. Tryouts are done at the beginning of the fall term and the successful aspirants then begin an intensive course of study and work to prepare for the coming season. Debating is not seasonal, it is year round.

There are two divisions of debating at Gettysburg College. They are the Women's and the Men's debating teams. They are on an equal basis and standing. They each have their own managers and assistant managers and separate schedules of debates.

Tours are made in general sections of the country. Always in the past Philadelphia and New York have been blitzed by Gettysburg teams. The past year Gettysburg teams ventured to New England and to the Southern territories and made exemplary records for themselves. This year it is planned to go west.

Debating and the training it gives is of value to everyone and in particular to those going into fields requiring public contact and self control in speech. All who are interested are urged to attend the first announced "smoker" of the debate teams.

College Sports Briefs

The following sports briefs were released by the public relations department at Gettysburg college:

This will mark the 55th year that football has been played as an intercollegiate sport at Gettysburg college. The first team was organized in 1890, but the sport was discontinued during World War II.

Gettysburg college football teams have a .538 all-time average with 234 wins against 201 losses and 31 ties.

Coach Henry T. Bream will field his 19th football team for college this fall. His overall win and loss average is .600.

Football teams have rolled up 5030 points to 4595 for the opposition since the inception of the sport at the college.

"Hen" Bream, head football coach, is one of the oldest coaches in the country from the standpoint of continuous years of service at one institution. He came to Gettysburg in 1926 as an assistant and took over the head reins in 1927.

The football rivalry between Gettysburg college and Franklin and Marshall college is one of the oldest in the state, dating back to 1890.

Paul R. Seiber, brain specialist at Mercy hospital in Pittsburgh is the only Gettysburg football player ever chosen to one of Walter Camp's All-American teams. He was named to the 1906 second team.

There have been sixteen different coaches at the college for football since the sport was instituted on an intercollegiate basis.

In 1942 two touchdowns were scored in the first three minutes of a football game between Gettysburg and Dickinson. A Gettysburg player carried the opening kickoff for a touchdown only to see a Dickinson back duplicate the feat on the return kickoff.

Bob Yevak's 102 yard kickoff return against Ursinus in 1936 is the longest run on record at Gettysburg college.

In 1923 Gettysburg defeated Franklin and Marshall 6-0 by virtue of two field goals. Walter Mensch place-kicked one 40 yards and George Mordan drop-kicked 35 yards for the other.

Trainer Romeo Capozzi will be entering his 18th year in that capacity this fall at Gettysburg college.

Only four members of the first football team at Gettysburg college in 1890 are living. Surviving members include J. L. Gensemer, Philadelphia; F. V. Filbert, Auburn; The Rev. Stanley Billheimer, Palmyra; and the Rev. D. J. C. Nicholas, Landisville.

Clayton E. Bilheimer, director of athletics at Gettysburgh college will be entering his 21st year in that position this fall.

After 56 baseball meetings between the New York Yankees and Giants, each team had won 27 and tied two.

COLLEGE RULES FOR FRESHMEN ARE ENFORCED

Rules regulating freshmen at Gettysburg college are strict and rigidly enforced.

Men's customs include the following:

1. The regulation dink shall be worn at all times, except when out of town, when in uniform, on Sundays, and when engaged in college athletic activities.

2. Black socks and ties will have to be worn.

3. Freshmen are not allowed to walk on the grass.

4. Freshmen greet everyone on campus with the traditional Gettysburg "HELLO."

5: An official badge bearing the freshman's name must be worn at all times.

6. Freshmen may not use the walk that goes diagonally from Glatfelter to the center light by the library and chapel.

Use Rear Entrances

7. Freshmen must not enter any building by the main entrance.

8. Upon entering any college building the dink must be removed.

9. All school songs and cheers must be learned.

10. A freshman must carry his G-BOOK at all times.

11. Freshmen must maintain complete quiet during all quiet hours in the dorms and while attending chapel and classes.

12. Freshmen are not allowed to smoke on campus.

13. Freshmen must carry matches for upperclassmen.

14. No dating or talking to the girls during the freshman customs period except on Saturday nights.

Women's Customs

Women's customs include the following:

1. The dink is to be worn at all times, except at meals and over week-ends, which start at 6 p. m. Saturday and continue until 10:30 p. m. on Sundays.

2. Name signs are to be worn at all times except during meals and after 6 p. m. each evening until Saturday when the same rules will apply as stated for the dinks.

3. No lipstick, nail polish or jewelry, except watch and class or engagement ring, for the same times as those mentioned for the sign.

Must Run Errands

4. Open doors and run errands for upperclassmen.

If any of the customs are violated, the violaters will meet the Tribunal and be subjected to trial and if guilty will be punished. The Men's and Women's Tribunal are under the direct supervision of the Campus Senate. Prior to this year the Men's Tribunal was under the supervision of the Campus Senate and the Women's Tribunal under the supervision of the Women's Student Government.

This year a new method is being introduced. Both of the tribunals are under direct supervision of the Campus Senate. A senate committee is appointed to advise and render decision on the customs and punishments decided upon by the tribunals. Accused freshmen are brought before the respective tribunals for trial at a specially designated hour. They then pay a portion of their penalties for their crimes before all the upperclassmen and women in the chapel Friday evening if found guilty. Before any person may be brought to trial before the Tribunal for a third offense he must meet the Campus Senate Committee on Freshman Customs and will be permitted to call in witnesses in his behalf and the accuser must appear to render charges and present evidence before any decision is reached. If the student is found guilty this time he or she must meet the Tribunal to be dealt with.

A smart freshman will learn and abide by these customs which must be explicitly complied with. Bear in mind that if these rules and customs are broken the offender stands an excellent opportunity for hazing and seeing the remainder of the student body from a height in the chapel.

FINE PROGRAM OF INTRAMURALS

Gettysburg college offers a large and diverse intramural program for those undergraduates who are fond of athletic competition but who do not care to compete for varsity positions. These intramural games are played with intense seriousness and are marked by keen interest on the part of both competitors and spectators.

The teams are divided into two leagues, the Orange League and the Blue League, with seven teams having membership in each organization. The competition is inter-league until the end of the season, at which time the leaders of each league meet in a playoff to determine the college champion. The intramural program then becomes intercollegiate as the winner in this playoff meets similar victors from Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall colleges to determine the team which shall be the intramural champion of the three combined institutions. The McKnight Hall Independents have dominated intramural sports for the past two years and are usually the "team to beat" as each new season gets underway.

This year the intramural program will include touch football, basketball, volleyball, and softball in league competition, and golf and tennis will be the intramural sports offered intramurally for individual participation.

Handsome trophies are awarded by the college to the championship team and also to the individuals who ultimately triumph in intramural play. In addition the intramural team which captures the championship of the three combined colleges is also given a trophy. Two of these trophies, won by McKnight Hall are now on display in the library.

Since intramural sports are so popular at Gettysburg, new students will be hearing a lot about them as the various seasons get underway.

GETTYSBURGIAN RANKS HIGH IN COLLEGE FIELD

"The Gettysburgian," founded in 1897, is a weekly newspaper published by those students who are interested in the field of journalism. Participation in this field of actvity allows the student to express himself in a literary way, to receive the practical knowledge gained from writing for a newspaper, and from a business standpoint, to get the benefits derived from managing and publishing a college newspaper. Every student of Gettysburg college receives a free copy of "The Gettysburgian" each week through the distribution of the Student Chest Fund.

With the exception of the two faculty members who act in an advisory capacity, the writing, editing, and distributing of the paper are done by a staff of students. Freshman tryouts are held early in the first semester, and after a brief period of training under the supervision of student editors, the successful applicants serve as probationary reporters until regular staff promotions are made in February. Advancements to higher positions are made by means of a merit system, by which staff members are judged according to their interest, ability, and initiative.

Won Many Awards

"The Gettysburgian" is a member of Associated Collegiate Press and twice has won the "All-American" award, highest award offered. It is also a member of the newly reorganized Intercollegiate Newspaper Associaiton, an association of student newspapers in colleges and universites throughout the east. All departments — news, sports, advertising, and editorials — have received outstanding awards from INA at one time or another before the war.

One to five hours per week should be expended by reporters with 10 to 15 hours per week by the news editor and sports editor, the same amount of time for editor and managing editor. Associate editors, business managers, etc., should also spend five to 10 hours per week if good work is to be accomplished. "The Gettysburgian" pays well in activity point dividends and offers knowledge of business management and paper technique. Plans are being made to provide awards for all seniors who have served on the staff for three years.

This fall the paper will move into its new office in the rebuilt Student Christian Association building.

COLLEGE CHOIR HITS NEW HIGH

One of the outstanding activities on the Gettysburg college campus is the college choir under the skilled direction of Parker B. Wagnild, head of the music department of the college and associate professor of English Bible.

Professor Wagnild was a member of the St. Olaf college choir of Minnesota. Having originated and organized the Gettysburg choir, he has directed it through all its 12 years of existence.

In 1948, the choir completed one of the most successful seasons in its history. Touring Harrisburg, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other cities, it received well earned acclaim whereever concerts were given. In the spring an extensive eight day tour was conducted, the first of its nature since wartime travel limitations were no longer imposed by the government. The choir made appearances during this tour in Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Annual Tryouts

Tryouts for the choir are held in the fall and students who are interested in singing are urged to attend. Regular attendance is required of all choir members as well as unfailing attention to and interest in directions given by Professor Wagnild.

Last year's season was highlighted not only by a very successful concert program but also by the arrival of new gowns for the choir. Bringing such a year to an end, the choir voted to make records which are to be sold to anyone desiring albums. Thus one of the most impressive years in the choir's history came to an end with hopes for even greater success next year.

FINANCE DRIVE OF COLLEGE IS NEARING GOAL

Gettysburg college's expansion campaign has passed the halfway mark and approximately half the $707,170.00 pledged has been collected. The campaign for additional buildings had its birth in February, 1947, and extends to February, 1950.

The plans call for the erection of the following buildings: the long-contemplated new chapel; a girls' gymnasium adapted to their particular use; the modernizing of the present boys' gym to be used exclusively by them; a new dormitory for women to house all girls on the campus; a new field house, and a modern infirmary to safeguard the health of students.

Immediate Response

Originally the board of trustees sought a minimum sum of $500,000. Alumni, townspeople and churches responded eagerly. In Gettysburg alone, alumni and townspeople pledged $50,000. Gradually the sum grew until today it stands at $707,170.00.

The new chapel has been planned of Colonial architecture, built of brick and stone to conform with the design of adjacent buildings. It will provide over 800 seats.

Located opposite the SCA building, its columned porch and tower with Colonial cupola will dominate the campus. A chime of 25 notes will play from the tower. Its stained glass, choir screens, altar and reredos will provide a worshipful setting never before obtained in any building on the campus. The chapel will be the religious center of the college which is itself part and parcel of the church at large.

New Women's Hall

The new residence hall for women will be a beautiful colonial structure of brick and stone, completely fire-resistive, with a slate roof.

It will contain three floors, each floor will have a large living room or parlor for social purposes in addition to the individual rooms for the girls. A kitchenette will further provide for their convenience. The first floor living room will open through a bow window to an outside terrace, giving the added space and atmosphere for larger social events. The new dormitory will accommodate between 40 and 50 girls.

Modern Infirmary

The infirmary will be of modern design, well removed from the main campus, located on a plot of ground facing the highway. It will be built of brick, stone, concrete and will be one-story high with part basement only. The building is so planned that all patient rooms receive a maximum of sunlight.

Separate sections for men and women patients with complete duplication of facilities for each will be provided. There will be examination rooms, a physican's office, dispensary, and rest rooms for outpatients.

NEW FURNITURE IS DONATED BY WOMEN'S UNIT

For the first time in many years, the student rooms of Huber Hall and Stevens Hall have been entirely refurnished with Hollywood beds, maple chests, study tables, and chairs, thanks to the Woman's League of Gettysburg college.

The Woman's League, an organization which is always striving to improve the spiritual welfare as well as the physical appearance of the school, has made many outstanding contributions to the college. One of the more prominent was Weidensall Hall otherwise known as the Student Christian Association building .

According to Dean Dorothy G. Lee, there will be no foreign students in the 175 girls who will be attending Gettysburg. This differs sharply with a year ago when Miss Ruby Carles, Mexico, and Miss Jacqueline Bouchong, Paris, France, were in attendance.

Two Additions

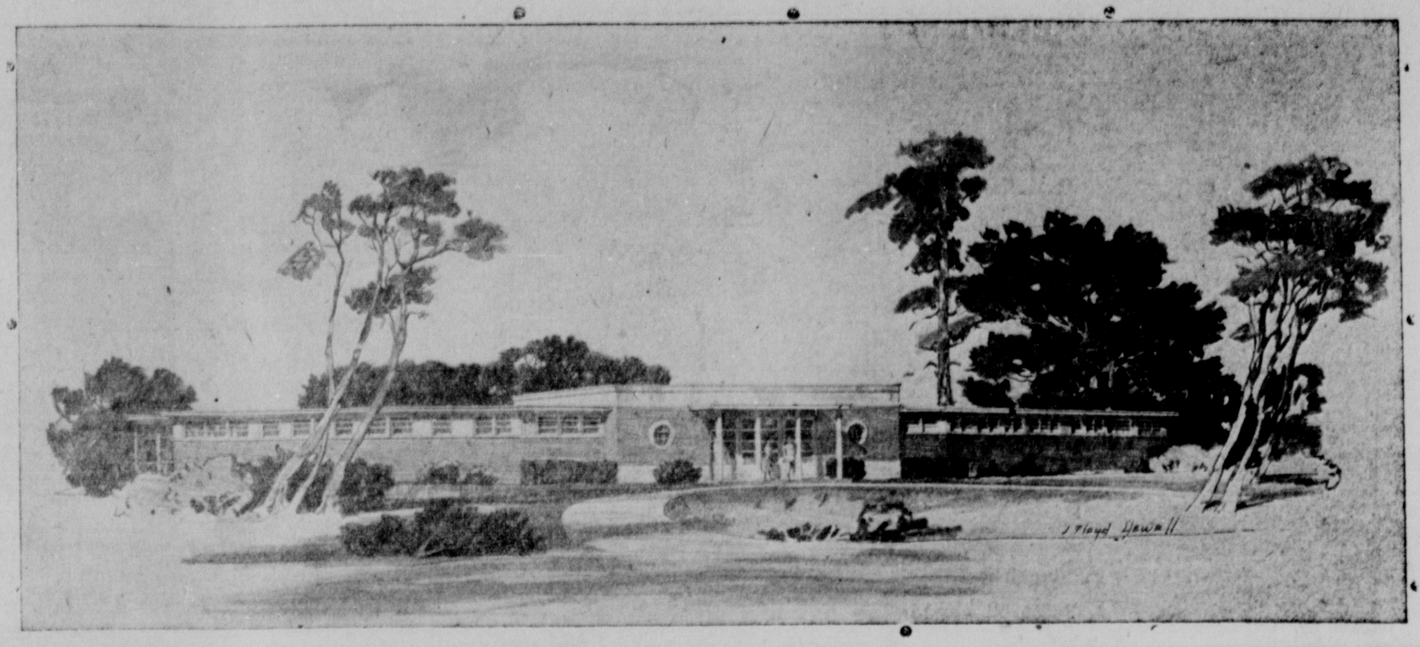
There have been two additions to the girls' division of the faculty in Miss Grace C. Kenney, who will teach health and physical education, and Miss Rebecca Lee, who will be the head resident of Huber Hall.

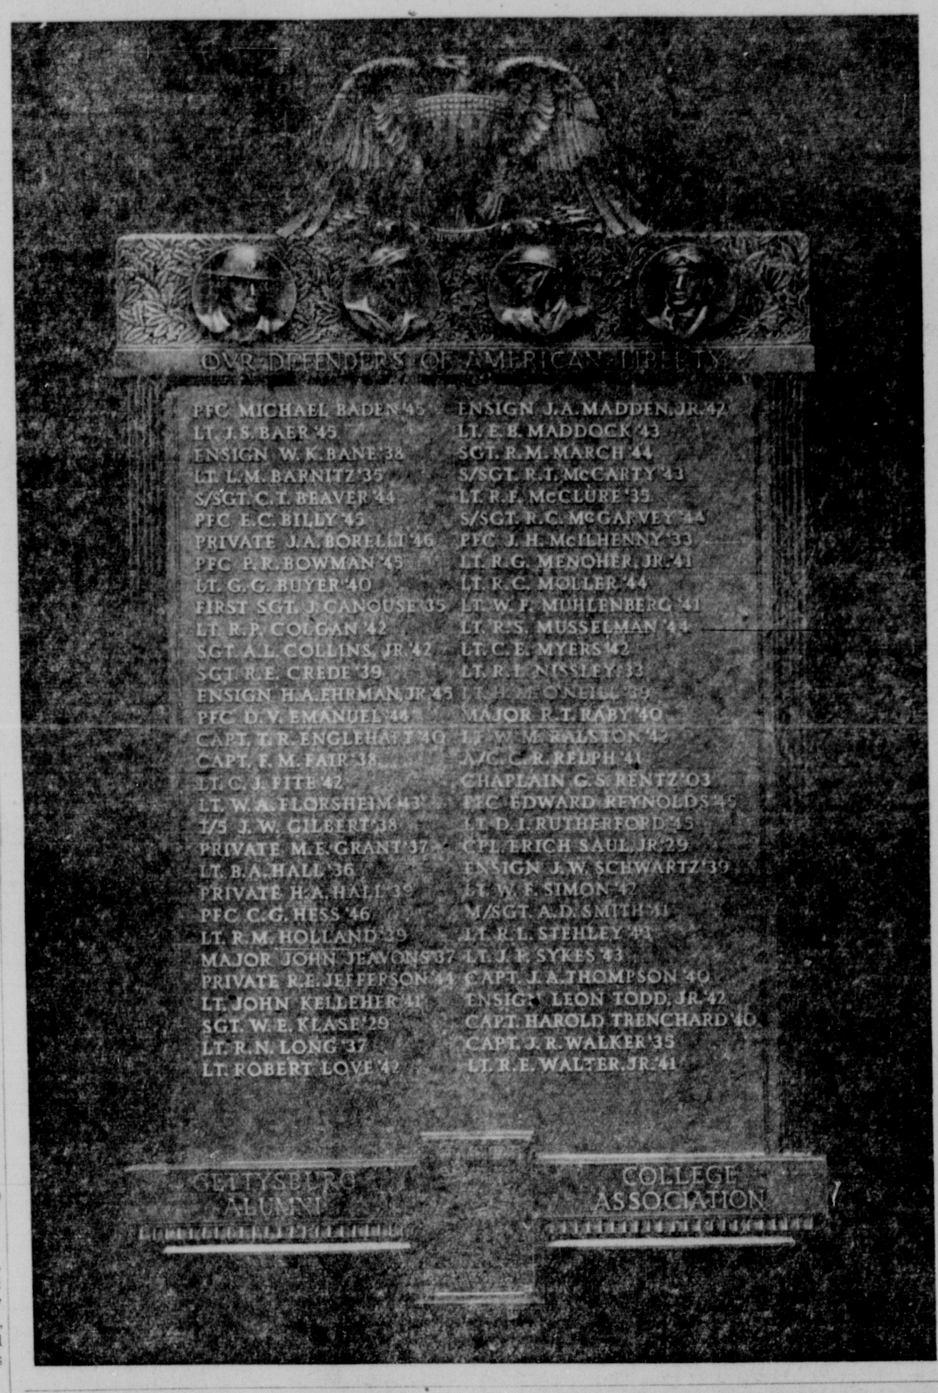
Miss Kenney, a native of Brooklyn, graduated from New York university and acquired her master's degree from Columbia university. A member of the American Association of Physical Education, Health and Recreation, she has been director of physical education and health at the Radford School for Girls, El Paso, Texas, since 1944. In the summers she has been the director of athletics and senior group head at Camp Deerhead, Hancock, N. Y.

Miss Lee, who served in the WAVES during the war, is a graduate of Geneva College and gained her master's degree at Syracuse university. She comes from Beaver Falls, Pa.

The house mothers for the coming year will be: Mrs. Loretta Deatrick at Stevens Hall and Miss Winifred Campbell at Aughinbaugh. Mrs. Mabel Phelps will be in charge of the dining room where the first meal will be served Monday noon.

Proposed New Infirmary At Gettysburg College





40 BULLETS RETURN FROM LAUREL LAKE

Today 40 members of the Gettysburg college football squad broke camp at Laurel Lake, where they had been since September 1, to return to the campus where drills will be held until the opening of the season on Saturday, September 25, with Drexel at Philadelphia.

Hopes are high for a successful gridiron campaign, no less than 21 lettermen being available. More than a dozen stars of last year's undefeated freshman team give the Bullets their most promising squad since before the war.

Head Coach Henry T. Bream, who is entering his 19th season as coach of the Orange and Blue, will be assisted this season by Johnny Yovicsin and Jack Shainline, both of whom played under the Bullet mentor a number of years ago. Clyde Cole will pilot the freshman team.

Have New Defense

In an effort to better the 1947 record of three wins, four losses and a tie, the Bullets will display a varied offense this year, combining a T-formation with a single-wing attack instead of the lone single-wing style.

Veterans are on hand for every position on the team. At ends the lettermen returning are Bob McCausland, Howard Cauffman, Bob Court and Dud Tremble. Other candidates include Tom Diviney and Dave Rasmussen from last year's varsity squad and Don Emert and Larry Johnson, from the 1947 freshmen.

At tackles the veterans include Marty Pavelic, Jack Schlegal, Moe Warner and Bill Thomson. Russ Yocum, sophomore, and Bill Pownall, are other leading tackle candidates.

4 Center Candidates

Five vets are seeking guard positions including Gene Hummel, All-State second team a year ago, Al Reese, Les Ginanni, Tom Gallagher and Jack Love. Jim Lentz and Len Nugent, of last year's frosh eleven, and Andy Natale, junior, are battling the vets for regular jobs.

Jack Gilligan, a junior, is the only returning letterman at center but the Bullet coaches should have little worries with that position. Walt Kirker, who missed much of last season due to an injured shoulder, is back again while Mike Erbio and Larry Buttler, up from last year's frosh outfit, are making strong bids for the post.

There are seven backfield lettermen on hand. The holdovers include: Bud Musselman, Bob Johnson, Jim Way, Ross Sachs, Tony Cervino, Nelson Gibble and Bill Atherholt. Sachs has fully recovered from an injury which kept him sidelined most of last season and is ready for full time duty. Others seeking ball-toting posts include Dick Beaver, Ditty Jones, Ron Fitzkee, Don Young, Dwight Speaker, Tom Faulkner and Bob Murphy, all from last year's yearlings, Junie Griffiths, a transfer, and Bob McCoy, a squad member a year ago.

Following the Drexel game the Bullets will play the following teams: October 2, Albright, home; 9, Bucknell, away; 16, Lehigh, away; 23, Muhlenberg, home; 30, Western Maryland, home; November 6, Delaware, home; 13, St. Lawrence, at Kingston, N. Y., and 25, Franklin and Marshall, away.

The first intercollegiate basketball game was played between Yale and Wesleyan on December 10, 1896.
